MILD WELCOME FOR U.S. FLEET

Chinese at Amoy Display Little Interest in Arrival of the Battleships

FORMALITIES ON SHORE

Severe Measures of Exclusion Cause Apathy Among the Population

Amoy, China, Oct. 30.—Rear-Admiral Emery, commanding the second squadron of the United States Atlantic fleet, came ashore this afternoon and made a formal call upon Prince Yu Lan Lang and Liang Yuan Yuen, vice-president of the foreign board, who are representing the imperial government in the welcome of the Americans. The men of the fleet and 124 officers landed. No special programme has been arranged for their entertainment, and the men spent the time wandering about the temple and the reception grounds. The places most frequented by the Americans were the bazaar and the branch of the Young Men's Christian association. The men's Christian association, the post office and the offices of the money-changers were swamped with work, and the student interpreters were in constant demand.

The illuminations of the fleet this evening was the cause of the greatest wonder and admiration of the Chinese. This evening 125 officers of the fleet were entertained at dinner by the imperial Chinese commissioners, and the reception committee of Chinese. The menu was native.

The Chinese people are apathetic regarding the arrival here today of the second squadron of the United States Atlantic fleet. Only a few natives turned out to witness the arrival of the battleships. Resentment at the severe measures to exclude the Chinese from participation in the celebration is the chief cause of the apathy.

The British consul has issued a circular stating that the local officials have declined to issue more than sixty passes to the enclosure to British subjects and that in consequence he will refuse to accept a pass.

The fleet appeared off Tai Tan Island at 6.30 o'clock this morning, having been met ten miles out at sea by the Chinese torpedo gunboat, the Yang, which escorted the ships to their anchorage, while the forts on shore and the flagship of the Chinese squadron, the Hai Chai, fired the customary salutes, which were replied to by the American ships.

American patrols have been landed and are stationed on the beach and along the road. No officer nor any of the men will be allowed to enter the native city of Amoy.

Calgary, Oct. 30.—At the city council meeting last night, a new proposal was made to the Montreal Engineering Co. regarding the street railway for a twenty year agreement. This will be considered. A further proposition was made in behalf of some Belgian capitalists.

Murderer Lynched

Kingston, Tenn., Oct. 30.—A mob of thirty men attacked the Boone county jail early today and killed George Cook, held on a charge of murdering John King, a ferryman, at Southwest Point a few weeks ago. All but two of the mob were masked, the two unmasked men being strangers to the sheriff. The identity of none of the mob is known. It is presumed the men intended to hang Cook, as they had a rope in their possession. However, when his cell was reached he offered resistance and drew a razor. With this weapon he cut one of the men in the mob. This, it appears, enraged the invaders and Cook was shot dead. Four bullets entered his body. Sheriff's deputies are scouring the country today in quest of evidence of members of the mob. Governor Patterson will be asked to offer a reward for their apprehension. Before killing King, Cook was under a similar charge in Chattanooga, where he was arrested after escaping from this county, following the King murder.

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN CONVENES

Immoral Literature, Juvenile Courts and Other Questions Come Up

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—At the convention yesterday of the National Council of Women, Mrs. Maycroft, of Montreal, convenor of the committee on objectionable literature, prefaced her remarks by stating that more care should be taken in the selection of books for homes, and that insinuating pictures should be excluded. The abolition of Saturday supplements, which are educating children in mischief and disrespect to the aged and poor, was recommended. Misleading personal letters addressed to girls and others often containing items of information that are far from being of a moral character, and should not be allowed to be circulated, will receive the attention of the council. Library books often require the careful supervision of parents and guardians.

At this morning's session of the national council of women, W. T. Scott, of Ottawa, gave an address on the juvenile court, and referred to the mischief done by the establishment of these courts which was passed at last session of parliament. None of the provinces, it was added, have as yet taken the necessary steps to put the law into force, so the council adopted resolutions calling on the local council to have the provincial authorities provide the machinery required to give the juvenile court laws effect.

The question of woman suffrage is one that will claim considerable attention at the meeting. The Canadian Suffrage association and the Canadian Medical Association have prepared a resolution and will present it to the council asking that it be endorsed. The resolution is as follows: "In 1855 Canada extended partial voting privileges to widows and spinners, being the first country in the world to recognize the inherent rights and claims of its women to citizenship and the daughters of this fair land are occupying with honor positions in the professional, educational and business world from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Women have always ranked foremost in the moral and social reforms of the day, and the ballot is the keynote of accomplishment in all reformative works. At present Canada is not in the vanguard of progress, but is a laggard, for New Zealand, Australia, Finland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark are leading. Therefore, be it resolved, that the members of the Canadian National Council, realizing these facts, desire greater opportunity and scope for the discussion of the all-important question of citizenship."

Toronto, Oct. 30.—The temperance wave surging up from the United States is once more making itself felt in Ontario. ## STANDARD OIL ON TAFT SIDE

So Say Mr. Bryan and Chairman Mack of National Democratic Committee

ALLEGED BIG CONTRIBUTION

Great Meetings in Cleveland Addressed By Champion of Democrats

Cleveland, Ohio, Oct. 30.—Hearings denunciations upon the heads of John D. Rockefeller, Andrew Carnegie and President Roosevelt, for his connection or sympathy with the trusts, W. J. Bryan in this city tonight brought to a close another season of campaigning. The principal meeting was held in the big central armory, while a second audience was addressed at the Gray's armory. Later the candidate spoke to the street crowds from the balcony of the Hollenden hotel.

The arrival of the candidate at the armory was heralded by a great throng outside. Their cheers were taken up by those on the inside, who broke into frenzied applause when he made his appearance on the platform. Mr. Bryan discussed the Democratic platform, laying great stress on the planks relating to the government guaranteeing deposits, publicity of campaign contributions and the trusts. The latter topics furnished his theme for his attacks on the financiers, the President and Mr. Taft. The Standard Oil Co., the Steel trust, through Messrs. Rockefeller, and Carnegie, were credited with furnishing the funds for the Republican campaign. Earlier in the day Mr. Bryan gave out a statement of his views regarding the declaration of the two financiers that they were supporting the Republican candidate, and this statement was practically embodied in Mr. Bryan's speech here tonight.

Not content with his strictures on those named, Mr. Bryan had something to say about Secretary of State Root, who is credited with having stated that Mr. Bryan's election would be a menace to the country. "I see Mr. Root has made an argument against the election of Senators by the people," he remarked. "I am not surprised. No man in public life has more reason to fear an election at which the people vote. He also thinks my election would be a menace to the country. That is not surprising. He began his legal career with a defense of Boss Tweed, and has been so intimately associated with the big law-breakers ever since that he would naturally resent the Democratic way of enforcing the laws."

Chairman Mack's Charges

New York, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Charges were made by Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee today that the declaration of John D. Rockefeller for Taft for president was the result of the deal between the Republican national committee and the Standard Oil company's interests whereby National Chairman Hitchcock received large campaign contributions, and Mr. Rockefeller's promises. Mr. Mack said that undoubtedly the $29,000,000 line of the Standard Oil company would be fixed up in the event of Mr. Taft's election as a part of the bargain.

The Democratic national chairman said: "The Standard Oil company has landed where everybody thought it would land. Mr. Rockefeller held back for a bargain and got what he wanted. His declaration for Taft is good for at least 100,000 votes in the doubtful states. I cannot speculate on the exact amount the Republican national committee received from Mr. Rockefeller, but you can rest assured that they both received their price. Hitchcock getting the money and Rockefeller the promise which suggests the question whether Taft is with Rockefeller or Roosevelt."

"We now have the oil trust and the steel trust lined up side by side, working for Mr. Taft's candidacy. Mr. Carnegie's statement yesterday on his arrival from Europe that the election of Mr. Bryan would be a tragedy is not only shocking but should arouse the indignation of all fair-minded citizens of the country regardless of party affiliation. Mr. Carnegie, I am reliably informed, is not even a voter in this country."

National Chairman Mack declared he has learned that the Republican national committee has a campaign fund of $3,000,000, and that of this sum $2,500,000 was being used for the purpose of election and bribery. "The national chairman said further that $200,000 of the Republican campaign fund had been sent into Indiana and that more than that sum had been sent into Ohio."

Mr. Bryan's Comment

William J. Bryan, the Democratic candidate for president, gave out a statement here today commenting on the declarations of John D. Rockefeller, made in New York yesterday that he would vote for Wm. H. Taft. Mr. Bryan said he was not surprised at the declarations of Mr. Rockefeller, as the Standard Oil company and the Republican party have been so closely related that many of their interests are identical. In his statement, Mr. Bryan says: "Mr. Taft has been making speeches for many weeks and he has not yet dwelt upon the iniquities of the trusts or pointed out the injustice done the American people by them. No wonder Mr. Rockefeller is for Mr. Taft. Again, Mr. Rockefeller says Mr. Taft's election will make for law and order. This is false. Mr. Rockefeller's corporation is the most notorious law-breaker in the United States and he is for Mr. Taft because he does not want the law enforced. Mr. Rockefeller also says that Mr. Taft's election will make for stability of business. What kind is it that he means? The things that Mr. Taft's election will enable the trusts to get is a tighter strangle grasp on the American people and puts their extortion upon a more permanent foundation. He says Mr. Taft is not a man inclined to rush experiments. He might have omitted the word 'rush,' for Mr. Taft is not in favor of any kind of experiment in the way of remedial legislation. The Democrats have reason to be grateful to Mr. Rockefeller for tearing the mask off the Republican campaign and revealing the duplicity that characterized it. Instead of openly attacking the side of monopoly, the Republican organization has kept up a pretense of reform and Mr. Roosevelt rushed into the arena and allowed the charge that trusts were opposed to Mr. Taft to stand."

Mr. Gompers' Assistance

Washington, Oct. 30.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, today announced that he was sending out for distribution among union labor people throughout the country a special issue of the American Federationist, containing articles defining labor's attitude in the present political campaign. Mr. Gompers today also sent telegrams to practically every labor union in the country, urging his followers to redouble in vigor and alertness and stand true to the great cause of human freedom in this campaign.

MAKES LONG FLIGHT WITH HIS AEROPLANE

Henry Farman's Practical Demonstration—W. Wright at Work

Mourmelon, France, Oct. 30.—Henry Farman, for the first time, gave a practical demonstration of the possibilities of the aeroplane by flying direct from this place to Rheims, a distance of twenty miles, without mishap. The aeroplane ascended at 4 p.m. and an hour later a telegram was received from Rheims announcing his safe arrival at Rheims. The time of flight was 20 minutes, and the height reached was between 120 and 130 feet. The course was literally as the crow flies, over trees, fields and streams.

Le Mans, France, Oct. 30.—While Wilbur Wright, the American, was making a flight this morning the motor of the machine exploded. Mr. Wright landed without injury, and the aeroplane was not otherwise damaged. The accident was less serious than it was at first believed. Repairs were effected in a short time, and Mr. Wright continued his morning flight.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Delighted with the prospect of returning to his home at Dayton, Orville Wright, the aeroplane, whose flights at Fort Meyer during September held the attention of the world, is preparing to leave the hospital at the army post, to which he has been confined for the past six weeks. With the aid of crutches, Mr. Wright was able to walk about his room at the hospital today. It will be months before Mr. Wright will recover the full use of his left leg, and probably a year or more before he will be in a position to continue his aeroplane flights. Wilbur Wright, according to the present plans, probably will finish the flights at Fort Meyer, begun by his brother Orville, in order to fulfill the requirements of their contract with the government.

Burned to Death

New York, Oct. 30.—Hemmed in by flames and unable to escape from the basement of a business house on Duane street, Harry Jones and David McCreary were burned to death last night and William Stogast was seriously burned about the face and hand that he will probably die. The men were employed by the firm of Stillman & Engle, manufacturers of celluloid novelties, and they were at work when a barrel of celluloid caught fire. The poisonous fumes soon overcame Jones and McCreary and they perished, but Stogast managed to fight his way through the flames to the street, where he fainted. Frank Stillman, a member of the firm, and four girl employees escaped from the building by the fire escapes. The fire was quickly extinguished when the fire engines arrived. The loss to the building was about $5,000.

REPUBLICANS MAKE DENIALS

Candidate Taft Says Standard Oil Has Made no Contribution to Funds

WHITE HOUSE STATEMENT

Vigorous Campaign Speeches By Mr. Taft at Buffalo and Other Points

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Sledge-hammer blows at the Gompers-Bryan-Labor legislation programme were delivered tonight by Wm. H. Taft before the immense audience. Mr. Taft gave the names of many labor leaders high in the council of the American Federation of Labor who he said were leaving Mr. Gompers.

Buffalo has two enormous meeting places, Convention hall and the Broadway arsenal. Two hours before the time set for the meetings both places were packed, and on the outside were people clamoring for admission. This was the "Taft tag day" in Buffalo, and political enthusiasm, which has been running high, reached a tremendous pressure with the presence of the big orator. At the Convention hall where the Republican candidate received an ovation, he took up the Standard Oil subject. "Mr. Bryan is greatly troubled," said Mr. Taft, "about my attitude towards the trusts, and even more so by the announcement that Mr. Rockefeller is for me. If the Standard Oil company were anxious to bring about my election I should take it that the last thing that would be done would be to advertise its support of me. Therefore this publication which Mr. Bryan is now making so much of, it seems to me, has but little significance in attempting to show that the Standard Oil or any other trust, because it hopes for immunity from me is supporting me. That is not the way things are done."

"There is a gentleman from your city with a very lively imagination, growing even more lively as the responsibility of the campaign grows upon him. He has conceived the idea that the Standard Oil contributed a large amount to the campaign fund. I am in a position to state with great emphasis that neither the Standard Oil nor any one connected with its management has contributed a single cent."

In comparing the remedies for the evils in trusts proposed by the Democratic party with the Republican policy, Mr. Taft said: "The administration is making a flight this morning the motor of the machine exploded. Mr. Wright landed without injury, and the aeroplane was not otherwise damaged. The accident was less serious than it was at first believed. Repairs were effected in a short time, and Mr. Wright continued his morning flight."

EIGHT NEW CASES DOWN FOR NOVEMBER COURTS

Several Real Estate Matters in the New Business For Next Month

The list of cases to be tried at the November county court, which opens on Monday next, contains eight new causes of action as well as five which have been adjourned over from the court before. Several other cases which had been set down for trial have been settled out of court. The new cases as they stand at present are:

Howard vs. Bell—In this case the plaintiff, a real estate agent, claims $162.50 for commissions alleged to be due on account of a real estate transaction. He claims that the defendant, also a real estate man, instructed him to arrange for an exchange of certain pieces of property; that he did so, but that then the exchange was declined and he got no compensation for his trouble. The defendant denies that anything more took place than an offer to exchange, which was refused, and that the plaintiff was never employed as agent in the matter. D. S. Tait, for the plaintiff, and W. J. Taylor, K. C., for the defendant.

Geiger vs. Morten—The plaintiff is suing for $44, the balance alleged to be due on a plumbing contract. The defense is that the plaintiff has been paid for all the work that he was instructed to do. E. E. Wootton for the plaintiff, and Crease & Crease for the defendant.

Levy vs. Landsberg reveals another somewhat complicated real estate transaction. The plaintiff claims $153.50 as the balance due on money deposited with the plaintiff, who does business as the Empire Realty Co., in connection with the exploitation of a certain real estate project. The defendant has paid $55 into court as all that is due, and counterclaims for damages, saying that he has performed services which have resulted in profit to the plaintiff in the Cowichan district. The transactions date back for several years, and in the pleadings the defendant says that the real arrangement differed materially from that alleged by the plaintiff and that all moneys due have been paid. The action was brought primarily in the supreme court, but was remitted to the county court. E. E. Wootton for the plaintiff and H. R. Robertson for the defendant.

Cole vs. Williams, is an action to recover $37, being the amount of legal expenses incurred in buying a piece of real estate. J. P. Walls for the plaintiff and H. R. Robertson for the defendant.

Griffith vs. Miller—Here the plaintiff seeks to recover $225 as commission for the sale of the Imperial hotel. The defendant denies that the plaintiff effected the sale or was ever his agent. Frank Higgins for the plaintiff and Elbert Shanley for the defendant.

Geiger vs. Griffith is another action on a plumbing bill. The defense is that the plaintiff must look to the contractor for his pay. The account involved is $25. E. E. Wootton for the plaintiff and J. P. Mann for the defendant.

International Text Book Company vs. Robertson is a suit for a balance of fees said to be due on a course of mechanical drawing. The defense denies the arrangement set out by the plaintiff and further that the plaintiff has no standing in court in any event, as it is a foreign unregistered company. J. H. Lawson, Jr. for the plaintiff and J. A. Aikman for the defense.

JURY GIVES DAMAGES

Boy on Bicycle Gets $175 For Being Run Down By Motor

Judge Lampan was occupied all yesterday in hearing the case of Lemmax vs. Winter in which he was assisted by a special jury. The plaintiff is a young man who was knocked down some time ago by a motor which was being driven by the defendant's chauffeur. The evidence showed that the machine was being driven at a fast pace down Government street and collided with the defendant who was riding a bicycle at the intersection of Fort street. His wheel was pretty badly damaged, his clothes torn and he himself considerably bruised. The jury awarded $175 damages.

In giving judgment Judge Lampan commented rather severely on the case, saying that a few verdicts for damages would probably do more towards stopping reckless driving than any fine which the city could impose. He remarked on the fact that having blown his horn and seeing no one ahead of him, the chauffeur apparently thought he was at liberty to go ahead as fast as he liked. The machine apparently runs very noiselessly, and the defendant had no idea it was coming until it was on top of him.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To Correct an Impression.
Sir—With you kindly correct an impression which may be gathered from a perusal of the report of last night's council meeting. Mr. Mann is stated to have expressed the opinion that the removal of the city "in the present shortage" is to enter into a competition with the company. This is quite erroneous. The council were merely reminded that Mr. W. J. Taylor, K. C., had before an executive council pointed out that the city had a remedy by operating a competition plant or inviting competition in as much as the franchise to the company has been pressed to be not a sole and exclusive franchise.

MULTIFARIOUS DUTIES

Provincial Secretary of British Columbia Has Raised List of Occupations

The Provincial secretary of the province of British Columbia, thus many of the multifarious duties. The present Provincial secretary's office, he is Young, is also minister of education, but apart from that department he is at the head of all the resident physicians in hospitals in receipt of government subsidies; he is head of the public health department and the printing department, in which latter capacity he is the responsible editor of the Gazette.

All appointments pass through the Provincial secretary's official; he is at the head of the Archives department and is custodian of the orders-in-council and the official medium of communication between the lieutenant governor and the ministers. He further is responsible for the minutes of the executive and in his spare moments is supposed to keep a keen eye on the welfare of all the public institutions of the province with the exception of the jails. Thus for instance the Provincial Museum and the care of the parliament buildings come under his orders, although repairs are executed by the board of works. As if to ensure that the provincial secretary should play a part in the government, the custom of the public to bombard his office with their letters when not quite sure what department to write to.

New Westminster, Oct. 29.—The city police have effected two speedy captures within the last 24 hours. On Tuesday night a telephone message was received from Timberland four miles out of town, that some money and diamond jewelry had been stolen from the house of a Mrs. Thompson. The informant mentioned that a man named Primrose had called at the house during the day when only a child was at home, but otherwise there was no clue to the theft. The city police rounded up Primrose a few hours later and found the all got stolen goods on his person. He was subsequently turned over to the Provincial police. An overcoat and suit of clothes were stolen from a Columbia street boarding house on Monday night and today the police produced Billy Moyer with the goods literally on him. Billy will serve six months in the penitentiary.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR ARCTIC BROTHERHOOD

The Ladies, the City and the Tourist Association Will Take a Hand

Preliminary arrangements for the entertainment of the Grand Camp of the Arctic Brotherhood which holds its eighth annual meeting here next week were made at a meeting held in the Tourist Association rooms yesterday afternoon. It was generally regretted that owing to the shortness of notice, it would be impossible to give the guests as good a time as those in charge of the festivities would like, but the ladies are taking a hand, and the northern guests will have nothing to complain of.

The Arctic Brothers and their wives with a large contingent of Alaskans, and others from Seattle, will arrive here on the Princess Victoria next Wednesday. They will proceed immediately to their quarters at the Empress hotel, and after lunch they will be publicly welcomed in the theatre by the mayor. The visiting brothers will appear in the theatre in their picturesque northern dress and regalia, and the function will be an interesting one.

On Wednesday evening the Brotherhood gives a dance at the Empress to which it is hoped that as many Victorians as possible will go. An excellent supper is promised by the management of the hotel, and the tickets will be $5 each, a ticket being good for a gentleman and lady. On Thursday it is expected that most of those who are not delegates to the Grand Camp will return, leaving from 100 to 150 brothers, many of whom will be accompanied by ladies. The latter will be entertained at the Alexandra club on Thursday afternoon. Afternoon tea will be served at an informal reception at which a musical programme will be rendered.

On Thursday evening a number of seats will be reserved for the use of the visitors at the concert to be given that night at the Institute hall by Mr. Clement Goss, and on Friday evening there will be a civic reception at the Empress. The visitors will be received by the mayors, supported by a number of representative ladies. The reception will be held in the palm room at the Empress and will be informal. An excellent musical programme, both vocal and instrumental, is promised; there will be cigars for the men and some light refreshments. If the weather is fine enough during their stay here those of the visitors who have time to go will be driven round the city in trolley-buses and the premier has promised to light up the parliament buildings and throw them open at night for the benefit of the guests.

It is hoped in this way to offer the men from the north a warm welcome without bankrupting the city treasury. The mayor agreed to break the news of additional expenditure to the members of the finance committee of the city council as diplomatically as possible. But a large sum will not be required and the honor of the city is

They are not hard to entertain and the programme which has been outlined, if adequately carried out, should suffice to render the occasion a success.

Toronto Manufacturer Thinks Winnipeg Will Attract Many Industries From the East

The proposal to provide power for fifteen dollars per horse power completely shattered the Niagara scheme, which would only reduce the price to twenty-one dollars. He believes that the manufacturers of Canada are destined sooner or later to be centered in the west.

NOTED PUBLIC MAN PASSES FROM LIFE

Illness of Hon. Thomas Greenway Unexpectedly Proves Fatal

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—Hon. Thos. Greenway died unexpectedly at 7 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for about two weeks, but was supposed to be recovering, when he took a sudden turn for the worse. Mr. Greenway, who was about 70 years of age, was recently appointed a member of the railway commission. The body was sent west this evening, for interment at Crystal City, Man., his old home.

Regret in Manitoba

Winnipeg, Oct. 30.—The news of the death of Hon. Thomas Greenway was received with general regret in Winnipeg. This sorrow was not confined to personal or political friends, but all who learned of the passing away of the man who so long and so ably guided the destinies of the province were visibly saddened by the news. Flags on public buildings were flying at half mast soon after the news became known, among those being the flags at the legislative buildings and at the city hall.

Probably the deepest regret of a public nature for the death of the former premier of Manitoba is that felt by the political veterans of the province. Those who were identified with the stirring times of the early political evolution of Manitoba were sincere admirers of Hon. Thos. Greenway. The supporters of his government went through its long career of office with the shock of their late chief's death.

Hon. Thos. Greenway

removal very keenly. Their loyalty and affection to Mr. Greenway was made doubly strong by reason of their adherence to his administrative policies and their warm regard for his personal qualities. He was urbane, friendly and for all his intense sincerity of the man won the love of his followers and the respect of those who did not see eye to eye with him politically.

A striking tribute to the character of Mr. Greenway as a citizen and a public man is that offered by his strongest opponent in the political arena in this province, but one of his closest personal friends, Hon. R. P. Ross, the present premier of Manitoba. The place which Hon. Thos. Greenway filled in Manitoba was a large one. Although of late years his activities had been removed to Ottawa, and although for some time he had been identified with federal rather than provincial affairs, his name was still one to conjure with in many respects in this western land.

Identified with agriculture in the early days, and being a farmer of singularly progressive characteristics, he was known far and wide over the prairies.

Hon. Thos. Greenway was born in Cornwall, Eng., on March 25, 1838. His parents emigrated to Ontario six years later. His father was a farmer in Huron county, and when young Greenway attained manhood he went into a general store at Cantrahat, Ont. After two defeats, in 1875 he was elected to the Commons by acclamation. He first ran as a Conservative and was then elected as a Liberal. He moved to Manitoba in 1879, and was first elected to the legislature for Mountain. He took a strong stand in defense of provincial rights and took a leading part in resisting federal encroachments. Along with Hon. Joseph Morris he took a strong stand on the disallowance of Manitoba bills concerning railways from the south, and in 1888 was called upon to form his first government. He held office for twelve years. The most important legislation carried out was the abolition of separate schools in Manitoba and the abolition of dual language in the legislature. In 1899 his government was defeated and later he resigned from the Manitoba legislature to contest Lisgar for the House of Commons, in which he was successful. His opinion on western affairs was always highly valued.

During his active career, Mr. Greenway was a leading farmer of the province and at one time his Prairie Home farm included an area of eight sections.

FISHERY PROTECTION CRUISER IN PORT

Kestrel Arrived Yesterday After Inspecting Japanese Fishing De-pots in Gulf

After a cruise among the Gulf Islands and visiting the various dog-salmon stations of Japanese in the waters of the Gulf of Georgia the fishery protection cruiser Kestrel, Capt. Holmes Newcomb, arrived at the government wharf yesterday. There are a number of fishing stations and at all of these, as far as could be learned, there had been no infractions of the law. The Japanese establish themselves at the mouths of the smaller rivers to seine the salmon as they run in from the deeper water. The biggest stations are at Cowichan Gap and Active Pass. The fishermen salt their catches, and pack them in big rough pine-boxes for shipment. The steamer Ningchow, which has just left for the Orient and Liverpool, carried 200 cases of salted salmon sent by the Japanese home.

Capt. Newcomb, who is in charge of the fishery protection work in British Columbia waters, has secured the tugs Restless and Falcon to aid in the protection work. These tugs will be used to assist the Kestrel in keeping the alien fishermen who work on the B. C. fishing grounds from using local harbors. If this is done it is admitted by the poaching captains that they will be unable to continue fishing on the British Columbia grounds.

Five tenders were received including two from local firms. The contract for supplying German books was let to Paul Bredt of Regina.

INCREASE WAGES ON RAILWAY WORK

Grand Trunk Pacific Contractors Looking For 1,500 White Men

Searching for fifteen hundred men for laboring and rock work on the construction of the first section of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway east from Prince Rupert, and for the building of the terminal yards of the same railway at Prince Rupert, Mr. Robert Ross, of Ross & Carlson, subcontractors on the work, has arrived in Vancouver. He is after white labor and expects to send a few hundred men north within a few days.

Incidentally Mr. Ross announced that his firm had decided to increase the rate of pay prevailing on construction work in the north. Ever since the building of the line was commenced contractors and subcontractors have adhered to a rate of $2.25 and $2.50 per day and at those rates the employers found they were unable to keep their labor. Ross & Carlson will hereafter pay $2.50 and $2.75 and they expect to secure a better class of labor and have no trouble about keeping their men.

The demand for fifteen hundred men by Ross & Carlson is created by the fact that this firm was recently awarded the contract for grading the terminal yards of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Prince Rupert and the company is desirous of having the work completed at as early a date as possible. The contractors are now arranging for considerable power equipment for use on the job and this will be shipped from Vancouver.

SYNOD IN DEADLOCK

Question of Electing Successor to Bishop Carmichael of Montreal Left Over for Three Weeks

Montreal, Oct. 30.—Unable to agree upon a successor to the late Bishop Carmichael, the synod of the diocese of Montreal adjourned this afternoon until November 24, by which time it is hoped that it will be possible to agree upon a name for the high office. A cablegram was received from the Bishop of Steney this afternoon expressing regret at his inability to accept the position. This left the hostile forces in a deadlock, with the majority of the laymen in favor of the election of Dean Fanning of Kingston and the majority of the clergy favoring Dean Evans of Montreal. It was decided that it would be best to adjourn for three weeks and allow the situation to be generally canvassed. It is practically certain, however, that neither men mentioned will be able to find the necessary supporters, and an outsider will have to be chosen.

AUSTRIAN NOBLES HUNT IN THE NORTH

Fair Success Meets Efforts of Gentlemen From Europe

Count Ernest Hoyos and Count Karl Hoyos, of Vienna, who during the past three months have been ranging in the northern part of British Columbia and in the Yukon Territory, in search of big game, arrived in town yesterday upon their return trip, and are staying at the Empress.

Arriving upon the coast towards the end of last July, they visited this city and then went northwards, separating after they reached the sections, in which the game they desired to kill are to be found in reasonable abundance. Count Ernest secured in the northern region, entering the interior by the White Horse railway, and after descending the Yukon, ascended the McMillan river, near whose headwaters he established his camp, which was located about 300 miles from Fort Selkirk. He had with him upon his upper river trip four boatmen, and passed through his various expeditions the usual adventures of expeditions of the sportsman. Big game was seen in fair numbers, and he succeeded in killing three moose, three caribou, one mountain sheep and one grizzly bear.

Count Karl chose the Stiklen country for his trip and penetrated into the interior beyond the coast range and into the western slope of the Rocky Mountains.

His success is represented in the following bag: Three moose, three mountain sheep, five caribou, four mountain goats, and two grizzlies, one of large and one of smaller size. It required fully a month of arduous travel to reach his camping ground near Deas lake while he had the assistance of a competent Indian guide.

They agree in stating that during the month of September particularly the weather was very disagreeable, being quite cold with rain and snow frequently alternating. However, despite many unpleasant but practically unavoidable experiences in expeditions of this nature when made through a very rough and wholly undeveloped country, they are quite satisfied with the results of their quests, which will long be evidenced by the magnificent trophies which in due course they will

SIR ARTHUR CURTIS REPORTED ALIVE

Claimed That His Plunge Into Obscurity Was For Family Reasons

After an absence of over ten years Sir Arthur Curtis has been discovered in the wilds of British Columbia according to a story brought by T. W. Cole, now in Winnipeg, one of the party with the British baronet when he so mysteriously went off with an Indian guide while making his way to the Klondike with a bunch of horses. Despite the most diligent search and tidings of the missing baronet could be found at the time, and eventually a skeleton was brought out by Indians, which was identified by several persons as being the remains of the missing baronet.

Cole asserts that he knew before he left Vancouver that Curtis would disappear before reaching the Klondike on account of family complications in England, which Curtis told him, had been the means of driving him to Canada and making him trek northwards with a party engaged in horse trading. In support of the story told by Cole is the fact that within six months of the day Curtis left the party his wife, Lady Curtis had applied for and received an order from the British courts declaring the missing man dead, and shortly afterwards married Colonel Robert M. Brady, an Irishman with whom she had been intimate for several years before the disappearance of Curtis and who is alleged by many to be the real cause of the disappearance of Curtis.

Incidentally the story brought down by Cole from the Aschcroft district was received but a few days before provincial police as announced in the columns had received fresh requests from the department of justice at Ottawa to spare no pains to find the missing scion of British nobility. Cole says Curtis is now living the life of a trapper, and is virtually a hermit, living on what he can catch or trap and trading skins for such necessities of life as tobacco, tea, flour, etc. The party with which Curtis went north was organized by Roger Pocock, the founder of a region of frontiersmen, and in "The Frontiersman," a book written by Pocock, he takes full responsibility for having driven Curtis away by abusing him for laziness and not doing his share of the work of the party. For years Pocock has been looked upon by many as having murdered Curtis, but the story and proofs brought down by Cole will clear him of the stigma which has made his life miserable for the past ten years.

INCREASES FARM WEALTH

Washington State College Experts Experiment Successfully With Hybridization of Wheat

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 30.—Hybridization of wheat, with which the cereal experts at the Washington State college at Pullman, in the heart of the Palouse grain belt, south of Spokane, have just closed a series of successful experiments, will add from $1,800,000 to $2,000,000 a year to the value of the state's product in the future. Prof. C. W. Lawrence, station cerealist, and

Prof. George Severance, now acting head of the agricultural department, took charge of the propagating work four years ago. It was ascertained late last year that their plans were successful, but they preferred to wait another year before announcing the results. In the meantime seeds of the hybrid wheats were sent to farmers in various parts of the state, from whom the final reports are now being received. The ranchers report that the newly created varieties of wheat can be depended upon to yield at least 10 and in many instances as high as 25 per cent better than the standard varieties.

BRITISH COMMENT.

The telegraphic summary of the comments of the British press upon the result of the election indicates that the Liberal victory is attributed to the personal strength of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and to the absence of any definite constructive policy on the part of the Conservatives. This is the view which the Colonist has taken, and upon the latter point we have said that it is difficult to see how any such policy could have been advanced at the present time with any hope of carrying it into execution. The country is heavily committed to works of development. The completion of the National Transcontinental Railway is of itself a large undertaking. To it must be added the Hudson Bay Railway, which although in the early stage of its progress will doubtless be rapidly advanced. It is also to be assumed that the plans of the Canadian Northern for the extension of their line to the Pacific coast will receive a reasonable amount of government aid. Then there is the promised enlargement of the Welland Canal and the prospect of the Georgian Bay Canal being taken up at an early day. These form together an exceedingly formidable programme, and for Mr. Borden to have come forward with something in addition to them would have been very unwise. One of his criticisms of the ministry was that it had committed the country to an exceedingly large expenditure, and it would have been in the last degree illogical for him to have coupled with this statement that, if he was called upon to administer the affairs of the Dominion, he would add to those commitments. Hence, while our British exchanges are undoubtedly right in saying that Mr. Borden's position was weakened by the lack of a large constructive policy that was his misfortune and not his fault.

The British press comments lay some stress upon the hope that the result of the election will not be the fastening upon the country of a system of corrupt administration. This is really the vital question of the hour. We are not much divided in Canada upon the importance of great development projects, and our differences are almost nominal. We are all theoretically in favor of honest and economical government. The open question, which may well give cause to some anxiety is whether or not the ministry, which has just received such a remarkable endorsement from the constituencies, will be able and willing to inaugurate a period of purification of administration and economy in expenditure. We are not going to enter into any discussion of the grounds upon which accusations of malfeasance have been based; we are only going to express the hope that the cause of complaint will be removed as speedily as possible. Commenting upon the Conservative party cry, "It is time for a change," Sir Wilfrid Laurier in one of his speeches said that it was true that his government was going to make a change by removing all just causes for a suspicion that the government is not exercising its trusteeship honorably and in a manner consonant with sound political economy and common honesty. We are sure that there is not a Canadian, who has the welfare of his country at heart, who does not hope Sir Wilfrid will make good his promise in this regard. He is strong enough in Parliament to do so in the most thorough manner possible, and we can think of no greater service that he can render his country than the removal from the administration of Canadian affairs of every suspicion of wrong-doing. If he will do this, he will give the country a standing abroad which will rebound to its financial advantage, and improve the tone of political sentiment at home to a degree that will materially serve to bring about an era of better government.

SECRECY OF THE BALLOT.

A correspondent wrote us yesterday complaining that the paper on which his ballot was printed was so thin that the mark he placed upon it could be seen through it. We have asked several persons if they noticed anything of the kind. Some of them said that the paper appeared to be a little thin, while others said that it seemed thick enough. We have no suspicion that there was any design in the choice of the paper. Another correspondent complains that a number was put upon the ballot, and as this corresponded to the number on the voters' list, it would be easy to identify the ballot. He asks if it could not be provided for the voter to get an unnumbered ballot and deposit it in the box himself. This correspondent is mistaken in thinking that a number is placed on the ballot. It is placed on the counterfoil, which is detached from the ballot before the latter is placed into the box. He will therefore see that there would be no object in giving a voter an unnumbered ballot. As for depositing it in the box himself, the reason why the voter hands the ballot to the deputy returning officer is to enable him to identify it with the ballot given out by him. Once the right is given a voter to place the ballot in the box, the door would be opened for bribery on a colossal scale. The existing plan has some objectionable features, no doubt, but they are not serious. We may add that while there may occasionally be instances where the returning officers or their deputies exceed reasonable limits and exhibit partiality, as a general proposition the actual taking of the vote in Canada is as fair and secret as ingenuity can make it.

ENGLISHMEN IN CANADA

We reproduce a letter from the London Times, written by a correspondent in Vancouver who has been in that city six months. We feel much obliged to him for the very courteous reference to the Colonist, but could wish he had not told the London paper that we designated a certain statement as "a lie," for such an expression is hardly in keeping with that careful editing which he is good enough to credit us with. There is much in the correspondent's letter to which we would be glad to take exception, if we could, but unfortunately he comes very near the truth in too many matters to permit us to dispose of his observations by a general denial. But we may remind him that there are Englishmen and Englishmen, and while he correctly describes some of them, we do not think he correctly describes the majority. The correspondent seems to have in mind the Englishman of the clubs. Those to whom the Colonist was referring form the great majority of the sons of the United Kingdom, and they rarely trouble themselves about joining a club. Honestly speaking, we have no very great amount of sympathy to waste upon the young fellow whose first aim in coming to Canada is to obtain membership in a fashionable club. This is no objection to him, but whether a man joins a club or does not is a matter of supreme indifference to the people of Canada or those of the United Kingdom. There are hundreds of Englishmen in Canada, who give no thought to club membership, and are playing an honorable and successful part in building up the country.

The correspondent directs attention to the fact that he was unable to meet with any municipal officials in either Vancouver or Victoria, and he contrasts this failure with the manner in which he was treated in Seattle. It has never occurred to the people of Victoria that the municipal officials were charged with the duty of showing visitors the city, but possibly we might in this respect take a leaf out of the book of our neighbors with some advantage. As to the provincial officials, the correspondent unconsciously exhibits in what he says about them the very quality, which he finds objectionable in some of his fellow Englishmen. It is not his fault at all; it is simply the result of preconceived ideas. He complains that he was unable to see either the Premier or the Attorney General when in search of information. It is quite understandable that an Englishman, knowing that British Columbia has a population much less than that of a second class English city, might have the idea that the provincial ministers would be on the alert to act as purveyors of information to visitors. The Times' correspondent would easily see the unreasonableness of expecting the British Premier or Attorney-General devoting any time to giving information to casual visitors to the United Kingdom, and yet, to compare small things with great, we venture to say that if a comparison could be made between the daily diaries of these several officials, it would be found that the provincial ministers have a great many more things to attend to than their British contemporaries. There are physical limitations to the amount of work any man can do, and much as the provincial Premier and Attorney-General might like to devote some of their time to giving information to inquirers they could only do so at the cost of neglecting their public ministerial duties. Moreover, if the correspondent had been able to see either of the ministers, whom he failed to meet, and had asked for information, he would doubtless after a brief exchange of courtesies, have been referred to the permanent officials of the several departments, whose duty it is to reply to all reasonable questions and who, by the way, sometimes have to wrestle with exceedingly unreasonable ones.

In regard to the manner of certain Englishmen towards Canadians, it is hardly necessary to say much. Sometimes it is rasping, but in most cases the rasping wears off, but our experience with Englishmen, we do not now mean the young fellows who frequent the clubs and are really a negligible quantity, is that they are the easiest people in the world to get along with, have good sense, desire to learn and put on no "side" whatever. There are exceptions, of course, and unfortunately these exceptional cases always contrive to get themselves in the limelight, much to the disadvantage of their fellow countrymen. Each nationality has its due quota of asses. There is the Canadian ass, and the United States ass and the English ass. The latter being in the minority, and being rather more different from his fellow asses than they are from each other, is the most conspicuous. Unfortunately he is the fellow, who does all the mischief by representing that Canada is a country where "no English need apply."

Have you registered, so as to be able to vote at the next municipal elections? If you have not, today furnishes the last opportunity for you to do so. Application forms are to be had from Mr. Northcott, assessor, city hall.

Thomas Greenway, formerly premier of Manitoba, died yesterday. The deceased gentleman has been active in public life for a score of years. He was a man of sterling qualities and very highly esteemed even by those who were not in political sympathy with him. He was seventy years old, and had only recently been appointed a member of the Railway Commission. He was a Liberal in politics.

An exhibitor at the late Fall Fair has written to Secretary Smart making some suggestions as to how to improve matters next year. We hope others throughout the province will follow his example and assist the management in achieving even better results than in the past. "In a multitude of counsellors there is wisdom," and while last year's fair was an improvement on previous efforts, it should be our aim to obtain better and better results each season.

Our evening contemporary is still running the election. It is about as mad as the Colonist as it can very well be. It does not seem able to take a licking gracefully. Now if we chose to be as ugly about matters as our contemporary is, we might print some of the things said in the Associated Press telegrams in regard to the manner in which his defeat is regarded at Ottawa; but after all he is a fellow townsman, and there is no need of making him feel any worse, over his defeat than he very naturally does.

Mr. Lemieux is to represent Canada at a conference to be held in England for the discussion of an Imperial penny telegraphic service. It may be remembered that Sir Sandford Fleming was the originator of the proposal for uniform telegraphic rates throughout the Empire. His argument is that it costs no more to transmit a message a long distance than it does to transmit it a shorter one, and he takes the point that if it is reasonable to carry a letter any distance for one price, it ought to be possible to transmit telegrams any distance for a single uniform rate. The effect of a cheaper telegraphic service between all parts of His Majesty's dominions would be very far reaching.

Mr. R. C. Campbell-Johnston, one of the best known mining engineers in the province, declares that Moresby Island of the Queen Charlotte group, "is destined to be one of the greatest copper camps in British Columbia, rivaling the deposits of the Boundary country." This is more than interesting—it is a most important statement, coming as it does from a recognized authority on mining matters. It corroborates what the Colonist has said over and over again—that comparatively little or nothing is yet known about the potential wealth of British Columbia and particularly of the great islands which lie along its coast line.

Unless Canada wishes to occupy an isolation the reverse of splendid in the Imperial family she will ere long have to give practical consideration to the obligation to contribute in some measure to the support of the British navy. We are all aware of the contributions by New Zealand and Australia, and now we read in a special from London: "A cable despatch from Johannesburg says that at the banquet to Sir P. Scott and the men of the cruiser squadron now at Durban the Chief Justice of Pretoria expressed the hope that the parliament of an united South Africa would take the earliest opportunity of recognizing their obligation to the navy by making a substantial contribution, unhampered by conditions of local control."

The alien labor laws which are now on the statute books of both Canada and the United States sometimes work what appears to be a hardship by depriving prominent professional men of opportunities for advancement. An instance in point is given by an Ottawa correspondent: Because he was an alien viewed from the standpoint of the United States government, Mr. W. A. Graham, well known in Ottawa as a former master in the Ottawa Collegiate Institute, was obliged to resign a lucrative position on the Panama Canal, and is again in the capital, having been re-appointed to the Collegiate staff. While Canadians were not singled out for dismissal, it is believed that the enforcement of the alien labor law in Canada against engineers and others employed on the Grand Trunk Pacific surveys inspired the movement against outsiders on the great canal project.

The B. C. Electric Railway company came in for some pretty hard criticism at the hands of the City Council for the shortage of light and power. We have done a little criticism of the company ourselves, and expect to do more; but it is possible to be unreasonable in such matters, and we think some of the Aldermen laid themselves open to that charge. The company had reason to expect that there would have been an abundance of water, and cannot be held responsible for the occurrence of two exceptionally dry seasons in succession. As for the power required for the tramcar system, the auxiliary steam plant unfortunately gave out at a critical time and in a place which required many days to make the necessary repairs. It is easy to find fault but not so easy to provide against all possible contingencies. We think the criticism of the company has been unduly severe, but we may add that now the weak points in their system have been demonstrated the public have a right to expect that they will be remedied with the greatest promptness.

Apropos of the news that there has been another scene in the British House of Commons, arising out of an attempt to elect a number of suffragettes who had chained themselves to the railing in the visitors' gallery, it is interesting to read the remarks of the magistrate who tried a number of women who were arrested some weeks ago, charged with making a disturbance outside Parliament. We quote from a letter from a London correspondent: "Counsel for the defendants argued that the women had done only what they genuinely considered themselves entitled to do. The magistrate replied that the law was clear, and if people did what they were not entitled to they were lawbreakers. It was intolerable that such turmoil should continue in the streets of the metropolis, rendering it impossible for peaceful citizens to circulate without the gravest danger. Steps would have to be taken, said the court, to end a state of things which should not exist in a civilized community. The magistrate concluded by saying it was much worse when members of the female sex prominently took part in disorder."

We had a paragraph yesterday in reference to the interesting experiment which is likely to be tried by the employees of the shipbuilding firm of Furness, Witby & Co. The scope of the scheme may be thus explained: A conference between the shipbuilding firm, represented by Sir Christopher and the trades unions employed in shipbuilding represented by delegates, was held at West Hartlepool on Oct. 7. Sir Christopher told the delegates that it was impossible to carry on the business of the firm unless the incessant friction with the employees be stopped. He made proposals to the effect that strikes must cease or the works would be closed; that if the trades unions thought they could carry on the business themselves the firm was willing to sell out to them, that if the unions would not buy the firm would admit the workmen as partners on a profit sharing basis and that a council be formed to settle disputes or refer them to arbitrators. The Socialist members of the trades unions vigorously opposed the partnership offer, but it is apparent that they have been overruled. The scheme provides for the selling of four per cent shares to the employees, five per cent to be deducted from their wages to pay for them.

Herr Rudolph Martin, government councillor and author of "The Coming War in the Air," who is president of the newly-formed German League for Motor-Airship Navigation, at a recent meeting fired the imagination of his hearers with a plan for the conquest of England with airships. He asserted, according to a Berlin correspondent that the principal duty of aerial navigation was to induce the combined continental powers to construct a fleet of 10,000 "Zeppelins," each to carry twenty soldiers, which should land and capture the sleeping Britons before they would realize what was taking place. Herr Martin disposed of the British fleet by pointing that they would turn tail and leave the coasts defenceless as soon as the aerial armada were in view, in order to avoid being blown up by the shells which would otherwise be dropped on to them from the clouds. The aerial armada would assemble at leisure at points opposite the English coast and begin their death-dealing voyage as soon as the weather was favorable. Herr Martin thought that artillery and cavalry could be landed in England quite as easily as 20,000 infantry. Before he finished his alluring sketch of Great Britain's fall his audience was rocking with merriment, but not altogether at the expense of England.

There is an extraordinary revival of interest in psychic phenomena in England, and the papers are full of alleged "messages from the dead." The discussion is not, as might be supposed, confined to the ignorant and easily-gullible classes, but is engaged in by some very prominent people. Thus we have before us a long despatch from Manchester, from which we make the following extracts: Archdeacon Colley, rector of Stockton, Warwickshire, at the close of a sermon on spiritualism at Manchester last night, exhibited a series of what he called spirit photographs. One print looked, as the archdeacon said, like a psychic fog, but in the midst of the black batch could be clearly deciphered some archaic Greek characters, and around them in ten concentric lines some microscopic writing which, the archdeacon said, contained a message from a friend who had been dead for twenty-five years. The Greek characters, interpreted last week by Sir Oliver Lodge, were a quotation from St. Luke, chapter 17, 4th and 5th verses, but seven words were missing. "This photograph, or rather, psychograph, was taken," said the archdeacon, "without a camera. I went to a friend's house and took out three plates and put them into envelopes. I initialed them, sealed them, and retained possession of them in my hands, and no soul touched them. I took one plate between the palms of my hands, my friend clasped my hands and a lady placed her hands above and below his. My friend then went into a trance. In a short time he said: 'They are writing.'" financial parasites scour the country for the fools and then exercise their nimble wits in devising schemes to acquire their money. Each year millions of dollars are parted from the fools, and every year may be conjectured from the millions of dollars spent by the pseudo-financiers in advertising. The bulk of the financial advertising in the leading newspapers is devoted to the country for fools. Another index of the richness of the harvest of parting money from the fools is the occasional exposure of some particularly glaring and bungled financial swindle which costs the taxpayers into the hundreds of thousands if not into the millions. But these frauds are seldom exposed, for the victims are usually as anxious as the victimizers to escape the blinding publicity which would expose their loss of money rather than hear their neighbors quote from the parasites' gospel, "A fool and his money are soon parted."

On Way to Manila

On board U.S.S. Commodore at 8 a.m. Oct. 30—(8 p.m. by wireless by way of Manila). The first squadron of the United States Atlantic fleet is now 110 miles from Olongapo, Philippine Islands, where it is due to arrive at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. The weather has been fine throughout the entire trip from Japan, and the ships have been occupied with squadron evolutions and careful preparations for target practice, all of which the journey has been uneventful.

Agreement Ratified

The streets, bridges and sewers committee met last evening. Ald. Henderson in the chair, and with a full attendance of members, while Mayor Hall was present.

Apart from routine work the principal business considered was the drafting of an agreement, assuring the municipality of Oak Bay of a supply of water, and although all the details were not arranged, it is expected that it will be placed in shape on Monday evening in time for submission to the council.

Anglican Young People

The annual meeting of the Anglican Young People's association will be held next Wednesday evening in St. John's Hall, Herald street, at 8 p.m. sharp, to which all members and friends of the association are requested to attend. The election of officers for the ensuing year, reports of all committees on the past year's work and general business will be discussed, as well as the arrangement of the winter session work owing to the amount of work to be done all members are requested to attend sharp on time.

Evangelistic Services

The use of the New Grand theatre has been secured for the holding of evangelistic services upon Sunday evenings under the direction of the Y.M.C.A. association throughout the month of November, which includes five Sundays. And the first service of this series of five will be held tomorrow evening at 8.30 o'clock when the Rev. Dr. Spencer will deliver an address. An orchestra has been secured and the singing will be both bright and attractive. Quite a number of the younger members of the association will take part in the proceedings, and only men will be admitted. This series is in reality merely a continuation of the outdoor meetings which are no longer possible under endurable circumstances, and if these five meetings are crowned with the degree of success which is anticipated, they will probably be continued throughout the winter season.

PESCAWA DISCHARGES CARGO OF PELTS

Will Be Hauled to Upper Harbor For Repairs in Consequence of Collision With Steamer

The sailing schooner Pescawa discharged her catch at the Hudson's Bay wharf yesterday and will be taken into the upper harbor in a few days for repairs necessary as a result of her collision with the U.S. survey steamer Patterson. Officers of the steamer have claimed that the sailing schooner was without lights, which statement is vigorously denied by those on the Pescawa. The report of the collision from the steamer's side is given as follows in a despatch received yesterday from Port Townsend: "A collision occurred between the steamer Patterson and the sailing schooner Pescawa, which was proceeding inward from the ocean, without lights, and the first knowledge of her existence came when the hull and sails loomed up before the Patterson's lookout. A prompt order reversed the steamer's engines, averting a collision that would have sunk the schooner and seriously injured the Patterson. Under orders from Capt. Hodgins, commanding the Patterson, after learning that immediate assistance was not required, the schooner was taken in tow and dropped at Royal Roads."

stranding at Pausanias after discharging a shipment of ore at the Tacoma smelter. William Cook, of Glasgow, of the firm of Burrell & Co., owners of the Strathford, arrived in Victoria yesterday to look after the business of the steamer Burrell & Co. have 23 new "strath" steamers, all of the same type, each vessel being similar in every particular to the other. A number of them were chartered by the United States government as colliers for the sixteen battleships which have been engaged on a protracted cruise and carried 70,000 tons of coal under the company's houseflag. The Strathford, whose long drift when under charter to Dodwell & Co. is one of the best remembered incidents of the shipping history of the north Pacific, was one of the former fleet of this company. She was sold out of the service some years ago.

When Dennis Comes Home to His Toy.
They may talk of their horses and houses,
The pictures that hang on the wall,
The fine sparkles rings on their fingers,
The servants that wait on their call,
The swish of their silks and their satins,
Roast beef and plum pudding each day—
But I envy no woman her riches,
When Dennis comes home to his toy.

To be sure when he goes in the mornin',
With the children to clean and to comb,
An' three little rooms to make decent
In the bit of a place here at home,
With mendin' an' washin' an' makin',
An' dinner to get by the way—
There isn't much time to be idle
Until he comes home to his toy.

But then we're as nice an' as tidy
As if we had money galore,
The stove like a cat's eye is shinin',
You could eat your three meals on the floor.
The bit of a plant in the window
Is as fresh as a mornin' in May,
An' the children go wild with their nonsense
When Dennis comes home to his toy.

The kettle is singin' its welcome,
There's a good bit of beef in the pot,
The tablecloth's clean—for I washed it—
The dish of potatoes is hot.
We're healthy, an' happy, an' hearty,
For the best of our lives an' say,
For 'tis we that have cause to be thankful,
When Dennis comes home to his toy.

For then with his pipe in the corner,
He can sit down as well as the best,
With his bit of man's gossip to give me,
An' I have my minute to rest,
An' to tell him the news of the neighbors.
While the children go on with their play,
O, I envy no woman her riches
When Dennis comes home to his toy!

There is no more important question engaging the attention of Canadians today than the great transportation problem and what is being done to enable the abundant products of the farm, forest, fishery and mine to be marketed expeditiously and profitably. The development and extension of our transportation facilities is the subject of an instructive and timely contribution from Major G. W. Stephens, chairman of the Montreal harbor commission, in the November number of the Busy Man's Magazine. Another article that will be read with interest is "Making Canadian Weather Predictions," by Mr. A. P. McKishnie, who is rapidly forging his way to the front as one of the brightest of young Canadian short story writers. The illustrations are attractive and effective. In both contents and make-up the improvements in Busy Man's will be appreciated, while the selections from the leading magazines and publications of the day will be perused during the long evenings of November with pleasure and profit. ## THE COLONIST ENGRAVING DEPARTMENT

A MODERN ENGRAVING PLANT PRODUCING THE BETTER GRADE OF DESIGNS AND ENGRAVINGS

A FEW CUTTING REMARKS

The purpose of a saw is to cut. It should cut easily, cut cleanly, and cut with every movement. I prefer an Atkins Saw. Its blade is "Silver Steel," recognized the world over as the finest crucible steel ever made in ancient or modern times. It is hard, close-grained and tough. It holds a sharp cutting edge longer than any other saw. Its blade tapers perfectly from thick to thin, from handle to tip. Thus it makes leeway for itself, runs easily and does not buckle. Its temper is perfect. When bent by a crooked thrust, it springs into shape without kinking. The Atkins Saw cuts—and does it best of any. We make all types and sizes of saws, but only one grade—the best.

CANADIAN ATTITUDE TOWARDS THE ENGLISH

Correspondent of the London Times Refers to Recent Colonist Editorial

A correspondent of the London Times writes from Vancouver to that paper with reference to an editorial recently appearing in the Colonist. The Colonist denied the statement so often made to the effect that against Englishmen discrimination was shown in Canada. The correspondent of the "Times" believes the Colonist is incorrect. He admits that Englishmen do suffer in this regard largely, he admits, from their own fault. The article follows:

The Colonist, of Victoria, one of the most carefully edited newspapers of the Pacific coast, contained, a few days ago, a leading article on a letter which recently appeared in a London publication. The writer of the letter in question declared that Englishmen were discriminated against in Canada. The Colonist said that the statement was a lie. It deplored the publication in England of libels regarding Canada, and, while it did not actually blame the London journals for printing such a letter, it evidently considered that good judgment had not been shown in giving publicity to what it regarded as a farrago of untruths.

The strange thing about this is that the writer of the letter was telling the truth, and that the writer of the leading article in the Colonist was mistaken. A partial explanation is to be found in the circumstance that Victoria is the most "English" of all the towns in Canada. The society of the place largely consists of Englishmen and Englishwomen of the old-fashioned type, and the English element is conspicuous in the clubs. There is an idea in Eastern Canada that Vancouver is also English, and that Englishmen had a more congenial atmosphere here than in the cities of the central and eastern provinces. It is this, the case, then, the situation is the case, that the Englishman in the Colonist is hardly too strong a word to employ in describing the situation in Vancouver. I am not speaking at random, I am not speaking without having made a thorough inquiry into the subject. It is the truth that a young Englishman arriving in Vancouver has less chance of obtaining employment than a European or almost any other nationality. In the best club of Vancouver, when an Englishman is put up for permanent membership, a whip has to be sent to the English members in order to overcome the black-bias which will almost certainly be used against the candidate, only because he is English.

Now the Canadian members of the club in question are good fellows and gentlemen. What is the explanation of this attitude on their part? It must be admitted at the outset that the fault is largely, if not mostly, that of the English. A candid traveler Englishman will usually confess that the manners of his countrymen abroad are about the worst of those of any civilized people. We all know that "snackery" said of the "magnificently hated" Englishman in Europe. The manners of the casual English visitor in the colonies—which is a word, by the way, that the self-governing British communities detest—are worse, if anything, than the manners of the Englishman in Continental Europe. The Englishman in Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, Australia, often puts on an insufferable air of superiority. Even when he intends to settle in the country, he usually begins by telling old settlers what they ought to do and what mistakes they are making. If he has no capital and no means of employment, he is always declaring that "things are not done this way at home." All this naturally makes the average Englishman disliked. I believe that a considerable sensation was lately created in London by the publication of an extract from the advertisement page of a Montreal newspaper, in which an advertiser used the words "No English need apply." I am told that this is, or was until recently, common in the west. One does not see it now, possibly as a result of the criticism evoked in London, but I can vouch for the fact that it is a very ordinary thing for an employer to write to an applicant for a position that the latter's application cannot be entertained because he is an Englishman.

But an effect far worse than that created by the impertinent tourist and the inefficient and "cocky" salesman or clerk is the effect of the conduct of large numbers of remittance men and men of the "remittance" type. It is hardly too much to say that these persons are a curse in western Canada—a curse to themselves, to their neighbors, and to the country. In the course of a six months' stay in Vancouver I heard of half a dozen scandals caused by the presence of Englishmen of good family and education who were even less scrupulous and honorable in Vancouver than they had been at home. Two of these persons landed in good and the others were expelled from the clubs. It is not worth while to go into details. The conduct of which the "remittance man" is so often guilty is the same all over the world. That is one side of the question. I do not, however, believe that the Canadians themselves are quite blameless. That even perfectly inoffensive Englishmen are discriminated against is, I am afraid, certain. Whether it is nearer the truth to say that the many are made to suffer for the faults of the few, or the few for the faults of the many is open to question. The situation remains. It is, I believe, a menace to the progress of Canada, and it may develop into a menace to the Empire. It interferes with the progress of Canada, because the Englishman often refuses to invest capital in the country—I know personally of two cases of this kind; I could furnish names and details. In one of these cases the young man concerned represented capital of £25,000. He was so annoyed by his treatment in Vancouver that he decided to go to Seattle with a view to investing his employer's money in real estate there.

The Canadian's feeling of irritation and animosity towards the English is displayed in many different ways. An Englishman is regarded as a "conceited fool," if, in ignorance of the customs of the country, he unwittingly does anything unusual. A young Canadian told me yesterday how an "ass of a Britisher" had dared to leave his boots outside his room in a hotel in Winnipeg. "I filled them with sand, to give him a lesson in good manners," the Canadian gleefully added. Even public bodies do not seem free from this prejudice. A number of well known mining men from across the Atlantic are about to visit this town. It was only after prolonged efforts on the part of those who realize the enormous interests they represent that the municipality was induced to arrange some small entertainment for them. In this connection I may perhaps be allowed to mention my own experience. I recently visited Seattle and Portland, spending a few hours in each place. In Seattle the City Solicitor called on me and insisted on taking me to the city hall, introducing me to the Mayor and other officials, showing me the extraordinary engineering feats that are being performed, and providing me with all sorts of information regarding the progress of the city. In Portland a member of the Board of Trade took me all over the place and "loaded me up" with maps, circulars, etc. I had been in Vancouver for six months and have not met a single municipal official. As for the provincial officials, the Prime Minister was too busy to give me any information. Very likely this was true, but after calling on the Attorney-General seven times, on at least three of which occasions he was in, but also "too busy," I gave up the attempt to see him.

In many respects this is one of the most wonderful, most promising, countries of the world. There is room for an enormous population, for the employment, with splendid results of an unlimited amount of capital. The Englishman who has to be content with 3 or 4 per cent at home, can get 8 or 10 per cent here, and with practically no risk. In these circumstances, it is not the attitude of the British Colonists a little short-sighted? They have been provoked—provoked to justifiable irritation in all sorts of ways. But I believe there are even more "remittance" men in Australia than in western Canada, and yet the hospitality and kindness of the Australians to English visitors is proverbial. British Columbia is bound to suffer if the atmosphere of antagonism in which the people live is not dispelled.

In this letter nothing has been set down in malice, and I repeat that I believe the fault to be chiefly with the English, who, even the best of them, have a patronizing manner that is more galling to the Canadians than would be open insult. In time, let us hope, both sides will learn to make allowances for each other's peculiarities but the improvement should originate with the Englishmen, who have the greater responsibility for the present state of things.

AGREEMENT BETWEEN CITY AND OAK BAY

Corporation to Sell Municipality Water in Bulk—Latter Will Distribute

The civic authorities have consented to sign an agreement with the Oak Bay council to supply water in bulk at the boundary of that municipality and the council of the latter district already are considering plans for the installation of a distribution system which will give those whom they represent the service they are anxious to obtain. This question was discussed at a meeting of the roads, sewers and bridges committee of Oak Bay held yesterday afternoon, when Acting Reeve Henderson occupied the chair. Others present were Councillors Fernie, Pemberton, McGregor, Newton, Noble and the clerk, J. S. Floyd.

No sooner had the session been called to order and the usual preliminary routine disposed of than the clerk was called on for his report on the interview with the streets, bridges and sewers committee of Victoria which took place several days ago. Mr. Floyd responded without delay and his statement was listened to with every indication of gratification. It was affirmed that the water commissioner had recommended that the Oak Bay municipality be furnished with water at the boundary on Oak Bay avenue and Cadboro Bay road. The proposal, after deliberation, had been endorsed by those present, it being stipulated that Oak Bay should pay for the supply received from Victoria at a general rate to be fixed, that they should provide their own distribution system and collect their own fees from customers. Instructions were given the proper officials to draft an agreement in accordance with the understanding outlined which would be submitted to the Oak Bay councillors for their acceptance at as early a date as possible.

Distribution System.

This report, as stated, was favorably commented on and it was decided that it was imperative that no time should be lost in making arrangements for carrying out of the work of distribution in Oak Bay. It was pointed out that, at present, there were two four-inch mains in the district running along Oak Bay avenue and Cadboro Bay road. These, of course, belonged to the corporation and it would be necessary to replace them by new piping of the quality and size which might be deemed necessary by the engineer employed to supervise the work. Before starting it would be required that the councillors should have laid before them a system which would provide for the distribution of water throughout the district no matter how thickly populated it might become in the course of development. In other words, it was agreed that in undertaking such a project the council would have to bear in mind the possibility of rapid growth and so lay their plans that, not only would the present residents have their needs supplied but there would be no difficulty in providing the extensions which might be rendered necessary in the course of time. To look into all these phases of the question, to investigate and report on the best means of financing the project, and to attend to other innumerable details a special committee was appointed. Those chosen were Councillors Fernie, McGregor and Pemberton.

There was some debate as to the letting of the contract for the work of laying mains already decided on along Hampshire road north, Newport avenue and Empress street, which will be carried through under the local option system. It was decided that the award should go to Hugh McDonald and that he should be instructed to proceed as expeditiously as practicable.

This brought the business to come before the roads, sewers and bridges committee to a close. Therefore the meeting adjourned and was immediately followed by a session of the finance committee. Accounts for the past month were certified correct and instructions given for their payment. The meeting then adjourned.

The Western oat yield is estimated as: Manitoba, 60,267,000 bushels, or 38 per acre; Saskatchewan, 29,763,000 bushels, or 32 per acre; Alberta, 25,451,000 bushels, or 49 per acre.

COURTS WILL DEFINE RIGHTS OF PROVINCE

Two Important Cases Shortly to Be Argued—Railway Belt and Indian Reserves

The province has two most important cases pending before the courts, which the rights of the province and the Dominion respectively are involved. One of these is the case of the Attorney-General of Canada vs. the Burrard Power company, in which the province is really the defendant in that the company is drawn into conflict with the Dominion on account of its reliance on powers granted by the province.

The Burrard Power company has a number of water records taken out in pursuance of the Water Clauses Consolidation act, a provincial statute, on streams within what is known as the railway belt. This is a strip of land running east and west through the province along the line of the railway and which was given to the Dominion by the province in order to facilitate the construction of the C.P.R. through this province. The contention of the province is that this grant was merely that of the fee, and that the Dominion so became a private owner of these lands subject to the laws of the province, and is in fact in the same position as any other owner of lands. The Dominion, however, contends that it has rights of sovereignty over these lands, and that provincial legislation such as the Water Clauses Consolidation act has no effect within the belt.

The case is being tried in the exchequer court of Canada, and some time ago the evidence was taken in Vancouver by Mr. Justice Martin, who was specially appointed for that purpose, and the arguments will take place later on before the exchequer court at Ottawa. F. C. Wade, K.C., and A. H. McNeill, K.C., appeared for the Dominion and the province respectively at the Vancouver hearing, but it is not known what counsel will conduct the case at Ottawa. An appeal lies from the exchequer court of Canada either to the supreme court of Canada or to the privy council, and it is probable that the case will eventually go before one or other of these tribunals.

Indian Reserves.

The other case is one which has been initiated by the province in order to have the rights of the province in regard to Indian reserves tried by the courts. The province claims that the fee of all Indian reserves remains in the province and that the Indians have merely the use of them, and that further when they sell or alienate the land, it reverts back to the province. The Dominion has not squarely taken an opposing attitude for this contention, although the Ottawa government has, notably in the case of the Grand Trunk, issued crown grants of Indian reserve lands, and as yet has not notified the province whether or no it is the intention to dispute the claims of the province, although the attorney-general of Canada has been given notice of the bringing of the matter before the courts.

The point will be brought up before the full court at its next sitting at Vancouver, and arises from a case which has been stated for the consideration of the court by the lieutenant-governor-in-council. The case for the province will be argued by the attorney-general and E. V. Bodwell, K.C.

MAN FROM BREMERTON GETS JAIL SENTENCE

Jacob Jacobson Alias John Helsing, Buys Houses With Worthless Checks

Jacob Jacobson, alias John Helsing, was sentenced to six months imprisonment at hard labor in the police court yesterday morning. It appears that he came over from Bremerton, Wash., with a couple of checks for $1,000 each, signed by John Jacobson and made out in favor of John Helsing. He went to the City Brokerage Company and there purchased a house, paying one of the $1,000 checks as part payment. He represented he had got the checks from the sale of some property of his at Bremerton.

He then said that he had run short of cash and wanted the real estate agent to advance him $200 on the other check. Before doing this however telegraphic enquiries were made at Bremerton which revealed the fact that the checks were no good. Information was given to the police who caught the man just as he was leaving for the States. He had pawned his overcoat to get enough money to go back with. When arrested he tried to make away with the second check which he still had in his possession.

In the box yesterday the man told a rambling tale of having found the checks on the street at Bremerton and that he did not know that they were bad. However he did not deny the main facts of the story and was sentenced as stated.

A Bladensburg merchant was dozing in his store one day when a little girl with a pitcher appeared in the doorway and asked for a quart of molasses. The storekeeper yawned, stretched himself, half opened his eyes, and then in an injured tone said, "Ain't there nobody in Bladensburg that sells molasses but me?"—The Argonaut.

In Woman's Realm

HERE AND THERE

There is an article in the current number of Harper's Magazine, on the "Logic of the Servant Problem," in which the writer, Martha McCulloch Williams takes a rather gloomy view of the situation. The average woman servant is, in the opinion of this writer, of an inferior class.

"Beyond question," she says, "the average girl is a chattering, or else a blessing, very completely disguised. But—again the pity of it—she is but a logical outcome of her qualities. And it is her qualities, or rather the defects of them, which put and keep her in the ranks of the serving. In other words, the woman who has both the will and the capacity to be a perfect servant, has the will and capacity to be almost anything else. Small blame to her if she chooses something easier, pleasanter and better paid, in which her social status will be better. No matter how much our hereditary democracy prates of equality, it is at heart as snobbish as it is aspiring and intensely human. The faint of service, which is the less or until we revise human nature, and our social constitution, domestic service is likely to remain the rock and refuge of incompetence." Little as we may like to confess it, there is scarcely any doubt but that this shrewd American woman has expressed what is in the heart of the thousands and tens of thousands of women workers on this continent who accept low wages, work in confined rooms or even starve in attics rather than live comfortably in other people's houses. A servant girl is looked upon as an inferior and during every hour of the day she feels that it is so. There are, of course, exceptions to this rule. Many mistresses are kind and considerate. But still the attitude is that of mistress and servant, not of employer and employee. The girl who serves behind the counter seldom receives directions from the proprietor of the store. The woman who operates a typewriter is rarely interfered with, but the cook or the housemaid is still more the general servant is expected to be willing to receive directions at any or every hour of the day. In the factory or the workroom, the girl has the companionship of her equals. From morning till night the domestic servant may not, in the house in which she works, feel the pleasure of unrestrained intercourse. This view of the case is put strongly in the following paragraph: "You, madam, think yourself held and bound, hampered with many cares, troubled about many things. But your home throughout is free to you—you are supreme within its four walls, and mistress of yourself and your days. Think what would be to rise up early to face a day's drudgery, and lie down late, conscious that tomorrow and all tomorrows would mean the same. Fancy yourself at home only in the kitchen or the uninviting bedroom, shut away almost wholly from human comradeship. Would your temper always be sweet, your inclination obliging? Would you smile when your afternoon out was denied, or take it kindly? Would the mistress have a company lunch upon washday? And you are your self, with, presumably, a gentleman's sense of justice and self-control. Put yourself as nearly as you can in the place of some lone creature, ignorant, low bred, developed only along the servant's grinds and graces, and you will be the first and most intolerable of all. She can be nothing but a servant. You say, perhaps, she should be grateful for food, shelter and wages. But ask yourself how long she would get either if your need of her suddenly ceased? The answer, if a candid one, will make one of the claim of gratitude. You know you would not keep her a day, no matter how desperate her need of you." The remedy, this writer thinks, lies in the direction of making housewifery a profession and paying for it accordingly. But in the meantime good sense and good feeling on the part of individuals will do much to make conditions tolerable. There are, already, many homes, at least in our own province, where willing service is rendered to mistresses who remember that a young woman's greatest need is a home and in whom the mother instinct is strong enough to embrace the strangers who dwell within their doors.

Sometimes we are inclined to think that all the romance and heroism has gone from this old world of ours. One day succeeds another and in the routine of common tasks there are so many little things to do and to think of that we forget that some day a great emergency may arise which will test the fiber of our natures. Yet every day things are happening which show that men and women are as brave and as strong as those of whom we read in the brave days of old.

A few days ago Miss Grace Barber, a girl of nineteen saw a forest fire sweeping down on the little backwoods town in which she was teaching in Kraken county, a Michigan town. She saw a realization of the terror that must have seized upon the young woman as she glanced from the blazing forest back to her little group of nineteen children seated at their desks. But she was resolute and resourceful. Not far away was a ploughed field and forming the pupils in double file she marched them in close order and ordered them to run for the field. The fire was almost upon them and the burning sparks fell on the children's clothing but were put out as soon as they fell. The field was reached however, in safety and the girl with her charges spent the night there. Her despatch was that terrified wild animals also took refuge in the cleared space. In the morning the children whose lives had been saved by the girl's coolness and bravery found their way to their homes.

A sadder case of self sacrifice was that of Mary Farrell, a New York seamstress who lost her life in an endeavor to reach the street holding in her arms a baby who had been thrown out of a window. She had exploded in her room in the top floor. By fleeing immediately from the room the girl might have saved her own life but it would have been at the risk not only of the building but of the neighborhood. Rather than do this she gave up her own life. Who would have known, the day before, that either of these young women would have proved a heroine? Yet such deeds show that there is far more nobility in the world than many believe.

The Women's Societies of the St. An. have arranged to do so and on November 18th and Dec. 16th two illustrated lectures will be given entitled "First Glimpses of the Old World." Members of the congregation and all interested are asked to bear those dates in mind.

ALL HALLOWE'EN

All Hallowe'en, the night before the festival of All Saints, which have been noted for observance since their origin in heathen times. Many of these are described in Burns' poem on Hallowe'en.

It seems to have been imagined that the supernatural influences were powerful on the night and that for those who were bold enough to invoke their assistance the spirits would reveal the future. The night was, however, chiefly devoted to feasts and numberless were the devices by which they sought to learn the names of their future husbands and wives. Some of these drew the young people together around the open fire where, in the murmurings of the light and warmth much progress was often made towards the desired union. Burns' verses describe such a scene:

The auld guidwife's well hoarded nuts
Are round and round divided,
And the lads and lasses sit
And there that night decided.
Some kindle, some side by side,
And burn together truly.

Some start away at saucy pride,
And jump out o'er the chimney
For high that night.
Jean says, in her own little tale:
"What! I was a wilding tell;
But this is Jock, and this is me,
She says in to herself:
He blessed o'er her, and she ower him,
As they had never more part.
Till fuff, he started up the lum,
And Jean had o'er a sair heart
To see that night."

It is a custom in Ireland when the young woman would know if their lovers are faithful to put three nuts on the bars of the grate, naming the nuts after the lovers. If a nut cracks or jumps, the lover will prove unfaithful. If the nuts named after the girl and her lover burn together, they will be married, as are told.

The custom of ducking for apples will cause merriment in many a home tonight, but that of trying to snatch with the teeth an apple from a horizontal stick suspended from the ceiling, on one end of which is a candle and on the other the apple, is not so common. In Scotland the young people go hand in hand blindfolded to the kailyard, or cabbage patch, and pull the stalks. The stalks are brought in and examined. "According as the stalk is big or little, straight or crooked, so shall the future wife or husband be of the party whom it is pulled." The stalks are then laid out in a row, one with clean water and the other with foul water and the third empty, tell whether the person choosing will be mated with a maid, a widow or remain single. To peel an apple without breaking the skin and throw it over the shoulder requires a deft hand. It ought to be a feat of the lover. A pretty trick is to allow the white of an egg to fall slowly into a tumbler of water. The shape assumed will tell the trade of the maiden's future husband.

But besides these harmless customs there are others more weird. The girl who caters before the mirror at midnight an apple in order to see the face of her lover may be terribly frightened, and quite as uncanny would be her feelings who lies in bed watching the wet shirt sleeves dry expecting to see the apparition of her future partner. These and many other such plays were tried in the old days by curious maidens who dared to look into the future. In Scotland, in Wales and in Ireland, it was long the custom to light fires on all Hallowe'en. "When the bonfire is consumed, the ashes are carefully collected into the form of a circle. There is a stone put in near the circumference for every person of the several families interested in the bonfire," and whatever stone is removed out of its place or injured before next morning, the person represented by the stone is "fey" and will not live the year out.

In the present day the night is observed chiefly by lads who are allowed a license to play practical jokes which would not be permitted at any other time. There are, however, many merry gatherings where the old customs are revived by lads and lasses who have fun as dearly as the young people of an age that have passed and who are perhaps as anxious to peer into the future as those who lived in a more credulous age.

Pumpkin Pie.

Choose a pumpkin which has a gloomy exterior and a nasty interior. The small ones which are flat at the end are often the sweetest. Do not peel it, but cut into pieces, throw away the seeds and the inner shreds. Put into a large porcelain kettle and add a cupful of boiling water. This is to keep it from sticking. Place at the back of the stove and cook slowly.

About two hours or more are required to bring it into proper condition. It should be sweet, tender and nearly dry. Pull off the loose skin and rub through a colander. If it seems watery let it drain over night. When it is ready to bake into pies measure the pulp, and to every five cups of it allow one teaspoonful of salt, half a grated nutmeg, a tablespoonful of molasses, two teaspoons of vinegar and a large cup of sugar.

Beat four eggs and stir them into the pulp, together with four cups of sweet milk. If you wish, add half a cup of cream. Beat well and taste to see if sweet enough.

Turn into deep pie plates lined with good butter and bake in three cups of an hour. When it is done it will be a rich golden brown and quite firm in the center.

WOMAN'S WORK

The bazaar given last week at the opening of the new Aged Woman's Home building was an unqualified success and those in charge of the function take this means of extending grateful thanks to all those who so generously assisted in making it so. The citizens of Victoria have certainly shown themselves generous to a fault in helping to provide this beautiful home for their aged women, and the management as well as the management can only hope that the giver of all good will reward them. The institution is purely non-denominational, all classes, creeds and colors being sheltered within its doors. It is incorporated under the benevolent societies' act and is not the property of a few individuals, as some suppose.

The amount received as the proceeds of the bazaar is $188.55. The expenses will not exceed $5.00.

The fancy work table cleared $366.35; fish pond, $115.25; candy, $112; tea, $91.45; ice cream, $74.45; plain table, $27.35; flower table, $30. Besides the above the following donations were received during the bazaar week:

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To darken oak framing, dissolve some carbonate of soda in a half-pint of boiling water; take a sponge or a piece of clean rag, saturate it in the solution, and pass gently over the wood to be darkened, so that it is wet evenly all over; let dry for twenty-four hours. Try first on an old piece of wood to see the color; if too dark, make the solution weaker by adding more water. If not dark enough give another coat. This may always be kept ready for use in a bottle corked up.

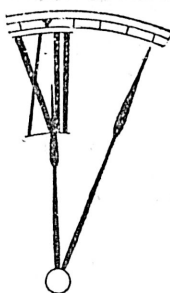

Hot dishes sometimes leave whitish marks on varnished tables when set, as they should not be carelessly upon them. For removing them, pour some linseed oil on the spot and rub it hard with a soft cloth. Pour on a little spirit, and rub dry with another cloth, and the whole mark will disappear, leaving the table as bright as before.

When chromos require cleaning, remove all dust with a feather, brush, and wipe carefully with a soft cloth, or a piece of fine linen cloth, very slightly dampened. If a little spotted or dull, a drop of oil on the chromos will remove it. If the varnish is dull or rubbed off, revarnish with thin mastic varnish. It is not desirable to hang chromos or oil-paintings in a dark room, but never expose them to the direct rays of the sun.

The following will be found to be a cheap and pleasant fumigator for sick rooms, and to diffuse a healthful, agreeable, and highly penetrating disinfectant odor in close apartments, or wherever the air is impure. Pour common vinegar on powdered charcoal, until effervescence ceases, leave the whole to settle, and pour off the liquid. Dry the sediment, and place it in a shallow earthen or glass dish, and pour on to it sulphuric acid until white fumes commence to rise. This vapor quickly spreads, is very agreeably pungent and acts as a powerful purifier of vitiated air.

To stop mouse-holes take a plug of common hard soap, stop the hole with it, and you may rest assured you will have no further trouble from that quarter. It is equally effectual as regards rats, cockroaches and ants.

To give a fine polish to linen, use luke-warm (not cold) water to break down the starch. When it has been reduced to the required consistency by

Home-Made Cream Puffs.

Set a saucepan containing one cupful of boiling water and one half cupful of butter over the fire and when the mixture boils sift in one cupful of flour and beat vigorously while cooking. When the mixture cleans from the sides of the pan turn into a bowl and beat in three eggs if large, or four if small, one at a time and very thoroughly. The mixture is now ready for baking. If one owns a pastry bag with tube an inch in diameter, force the batter on to a buttered baking sheet in balls two inches in diameter. If the bag and the tube are not owned, the mixture can be put on the baking sheet by spoonfuls. Brush over the tops with a little beaten egg, diluted with milk, before putting into the oven, then bake about 25 minutes, with heat strongest at the bottom. When baked and cold, open at one side and fill with custard or whipped cream, as preferred, and dust the tops with fine sugar.—Housekeeper.

SEATTLE TEAM TO PLAY HERE

Hockey Elevens of Victoria and Sound to Meet Next
Month

A LADIES' GAME ALSO

Local Association Secretary
Explains Situation With Reference to Vancouver

The first inter-city hockey match of the season will be played between representative Victoria and Seattle teams on local grounds on the afternoon of the 14th of next month. This announcement was made yesterday by the secretary of the new international union, J. Paget Ford, of this city. He stated that not only would the men do battle on that occasion, but that it was probable that the lady hockey players of the Sound would bring over an eleven to meet Victoria members of the fair sex who delight in the pastime. These two contests—and this, also, is just a little indefinite—will be followed in the evening by a dance. Arrangements for the latter affair have not been undertaken as yet, but as it is proposed to make some special effort to entertain those who come here from the other side of the line, it is not improbable that it will take the form indicated.

That Schedule

While the Victoria team is satisfied with the series as it was drafted at the recent annual meeting of the representatives of all the clubs interested with the exception of Vancouver, the officials of the latter organization are anything but pleased. Owing to the non-appearance of delegates from the mainland at the gathering, of which due notice had been given, at which the new international union was formed and a schedule drafted, the latter was submitted to the Vancouver club for approval. For weeks no reply was received. Then the local officials noticed a paragraph in the Vancouver Province pointedly commenting on the inability of those who attended the aforementioned meeting. In fact it savagely referred to them as "bright and brainy" and then related how they had given Vancouver's team two successive games against Seattle on the latter's grounds. Naturally this somewhat ruffled the feelings of the local delegates and without delay Mr. Paget Ford got busy and sent a communication to the secretary of the Terminal City club replying him for opening his heart to the press on the subject before replying to the request for endorsement or criticism of the schedule submitted by the assembled representatives. Mr. Ford also took occasion, it is understood, to inform Vancouver that they had received due notification of the date of the annual meeting and that it was their fault that they had no delegate in attendance. It is believed that the reference Mr. Ford cleverly threw out was that if the mainland had sent its wise men the intelligence of those whom they acknowledged to be "bright and brainy" would have been augmented 100 per cent.

Wants Two Changes

However Mr. Ford at last is in receipt of a letter from Vancouver, although it is not an answer to his last communication, apparently having been mailed before that from this city came to hand. It requests that two changes be made in the schedule. In the first place it is desired that Seattle play in Vancouver on the 28th of next month, and secondly, a match is wanted with the Garrison there on the 19th of December. Whether it will be possible to make these arrangements Mr. Ford does not know, although he does not hesitate to assert that, personally, he would not be inclined to give his acquiescence if it appeared that the alterations would seriously interfere with present arrangements. The communication, however, will be laid before the local members and will be taken up by a representative body at an early date as possible. It is likely by then

TODAY'S FIXTURES

3 p.m.—General hockey practice at Oak Bay.
3 p.m.—Victoria West vs. Garrison soccer eleven in a local league match at Royal Athletic grounds.
3 p.m.—Esquimalt 1st division vs. Esquimalt 2nd division soccer teams at the Causton grounds.
3 p.m.—J. B. A. vs. Fifth regiment soccer teams at Oak Bay.
3:15 p.m.—Victoria West vs. North Ward 2nd division soccer teams at Beacon Hill.

that there will be further word from Vancouver as Mr. Ford's letters are calculated to set Vancouver straight on several points on which they seem to be laboring under serious misapprehension.

Practice Today

This afternoon members of the Victoria club will hold a practice at Oak Bay. Through the kindness of the management of the James Bay Athletic association, they will have one of the playing areas to themselves all afternoon. But it is stipulated that players before entering the gate must be in a position to show their membership tickets or they will be required to pay the usual admission fee. On that account Mr. Ford, the secretary, wishes it announced that he will make it a point to be in attendance at the gate and will receive the subscriptions of those who have not yet obtained their tickets. It is pointed out that these will be good for admission to the grounds on hockey days throughout the season and, moreover, they represent a full paid up membership for 1933-34 in the Victoria club.

ONE LEAGUE SOCCER MATCH ANNOUNCED

Victoria West and Garrison to Meet at Athletic Grounds
—Other Games

While there will be only one local league association football match today, namely, that between Victoria West and the Garrison at the Royal Athletic grounds the usual number of attractions is made up by the different exhibition contests announced. The first and second divisions of the Esquimalt club will try conclusions at the Causton area and the J.B.A. and Fifth regiment teams will endeavor to demonstrate how the game should be played at Oak Bay. Another second division contest is arranged to take place between representatives of Victoria West and North Ward at Beacon Hill. All these games will commence at 3 o'clock with the exception of that at Beacon Hill, which is called for fifteen minutes later.

Those who will go to witness the struggle in which the Victoria West and Garrison elevens propose engaging will see a first class display of football. That is assured. While the soldiers did not start off their league contests favorably, they have since improved and strengthened their line-up so that no city team can afford to treat them with indifference. Recognizing that fact the Victoria West club proposes putting its best men on the field. They will be just as fast a bunch of stalwarts as on any occasion heretofore and that they will give the spectators a game that there cannot be the slightest doubt. Play will start promptly on the hour indicated, and it is desired that the players should be on hand a short time before, if possible.

Of the exhibition contests enumerated that between the Fifth Regiment and J.B.A. teams should prove the best. There is no little feeling existing among the members of these agencies. The militiamen are imbued with the idea that they can defeat the boys, and strange to say, the latter have a similar opinion with reference to the soldiers. Under the circumstances, even should the opposing elevens prove to be scarcely as evenly balanced as thought, the combat is expected to be pregnant with exciting incidents.

ENTRIES FOR LONG DISTANCE ROAD RACE

F. Baylis, of Victoria, Will Be Pitted Against Formidable
Opponents

Vancouver, Oct. 30.—Preparations are going steadily on for the Gold Seal road race to be held on Thanksgiving Day. The committee in charge is making the final arrangements this week so that everything will be in line order long before the race is called, that there will be no hitches or fuss on the day of the race.

Two recent entries, A. Dunn and J. Leroy, are expected to make a lot of trouble for the honor men. Last year, with practically no training, Dunn finished within the first half dozen. This season he is training very hard and will be in splendid condition on the day of the race. He is looked to be well up in the front by the wise ones. Leroy is a runner of much prominence from England, and more recently eastern Canada. Trophies that he has won in fast company and has beaten some very good men. His friends say that he can be depended upon to set a fast pace from the start. This is customary with English runners, making a fast get away at the start of the race. Some of our local men may get caught napping in the early stages of the race.

Among the outside entries the Seattle Athletic club has almost decided to send over two of their runners who have a record of beating the hour for ten miles. With the best men in the vicinity entered there is bound to be some exciting sport for the look-oners.

Frank Baylis, of Victoria, who won the Con Jones cup in the Association Football Marathon race, will start in the Gold Seal race here on Thanksgiving Day. Baylis entered under Y.M.C.A. colors, but his entry was afterwards cancelled. The well known athlete was determined to run, however, and as he is a member of the James Bay Athletic association, he sent in his entry from that club, and it was promptly accepted. It is understood that in future Baylis will always run under the J.B.A. colors.

WILL NOT PRACTICE

Victoria Rugby Club Members Cannot Play This Saturday

There will be no practice of the Victoria rugby football team on Saturday after all, it being impossible for that association to procure the use of the Oak Bay grounds. On that last night, however, Mr. McGee, secretary, it had been decided that the usual weekly drill would have to be called off. While it was to be regretted that such a thing had to be done, inasmuch as it would interfere in the work of shipping up the home team for the forthcoming championship series, still it was due to other branches of sport that their players be given a fair opportunity to prepare for similar competitions. However, the hope was expressed that local lingers would not let the cancellation for one week's practice to cause any decrease in the general interest in the pastime but that they would be prepared when the next practice was called to attend and to assist the coaches in every way in their power.

HUNTER FROM SYDNEY

Brings Back Bag of Pheasants, Quail
and Grouse—Ducks Arrive

There is little to record this week in connection with hunting. Yesterday a Victoria disciple of the gun came from Sydney after spending upwards of a week in that locality. He had about one hundred birds, among which were noticeable a few handsome cock pheasants, one or two willow grouse and an abundance of quail. Another votary brought in a number of ducks. According to his reports the latter are beginning to arrive and it is expected that during the next few weeks more attention will be paid the swamps and other favorite haunts of this species of game by those who prout about the adjacent forests with firearms and trained dogs.

VICTORIA GOLF TEAM PLAY IN PORTLAND

Eight Members Local Club
Will Go South Next
Month

A team representative of the Victoria Golf club will be entered for the forthcoming tournament at Portland. This decision was reached several days ago and already four members have agreed to make the journey. Secretary Combe is anxious to obtain the names of any others who would like to play as soon as convenient before the end of the month if possible. He explains that it is necessary that the officials of the golf club of the Rose City be informed whether this city contemplates sending a representative early next month. For that reason he is desirous of gathering together the eight men who will go from here without further delay. As four have signified their willingness to go south the secretary does not anticipate any difficulty in mustering the number required to make up what is recognized as a team. While Mr. Combe is of this opinion he stated yesterday that it was hard to get the members to give him the required notification. The majority, apparently, while anxious to participate in local events were not ready to respond to a call to go to a place where in the interests of the Victoria organization.

GAME SUNDAY

Ladysmith and Seattle Soccer Elevens
Will Play on Latter's Ground

Seattle, Oct. 30.—The Seattle United association football team of the Pacific Coast league will open the local season at Daguer's park next Sunday with the strong Ladysmith, B.C. team, ex-champions of the Pacific coast as their opponents. The Seattle United team is composed of the best soccer players in the Northwestern league. In reality it is an all-star aggregation of the local league.

RACING IN JAPAN

First of Season's Turf Events in Land of Chrysanthemum

Tokio, Oct. 30.—The horse racing season of Japan opened today with the card of the track of the Nippon racing club. For the first time all forms of betting were prohibited, in accordance with a ruling by the authorities. The attendance at the races was large and the gathering was a social one, racing being merely incidental. The chief of police and fifty detectives were on the grounds during the day, but there was no attempt at violation of the law. Among those in attendance were many prominent persons, Japanese as well as foreigners.

WILL ORGANIZE LEAGUE

International Basketball Series Will Be Drafted at Seattle

W. G. Findlay, physicial director of the Y.M.C.A., left for Seattle to attend a meeting of delegates from the different associations of the northwest. They propose forming an international basketball league and Mr. Findlay intends entering the Victoria Y.M.C.A. team. He believes that the local boys are capable of holding their end up against any team in these parts in the race for honors.

AFTER THE DEER

Feathered Game Scarce and so Sportsmen Return to the Rifle

Notwithstanding the attractiveness of hunting the grouse, the quail or the Vancouver duck, there are still a few ardent disciples of Nimrod in Victoria who prefer to tread the lonely forest in search of deer. A few of these came in from different points up the line last Saturday, and while one or two had nothing to show as evidence of their prowess, the majority had one or two large deer. And it is reported that there are some who, having been disappointed in the results of their hunting for feathered game, have decided to leave today in search of venison.

TO REVISE SCHEDULE

Meeting of Pacific Coast League Will Be Held at Vancouver

A meeting of the Pacific Coast League has been called for this evening at Vancouver for the purpose of revising the schedule in such a way that Sunday games will be eliminated. Mr. Smith of the Vancouver Y.M.C.A. has been appointed Victoria's representative, it being impossible for any of the officials of the Victoria District association to attend.

RUGBY IN SOUTH

Vancouver and Berkeley College Will Play This Afternoon

The Vancouver and Berkeley college rugby teams will meet in a friendly battle today. Local enthusiasts both here and on the mainland will await the news of the result with some eagerness. The last engagement of the outcome was a draw, and although the Americans were considered lucky to have so escaped as dispatches stated that play favored the Canadians. It was reported that the college stalwarts put up a plucky fight. It is likely that they will repeat their stand against the visitors and on that account much interest is being evidenced in the result than otherwise would be the case.

ROLLER HOCKEY

Suggests That Vancouver Be Invited to Play Victoria Exhibition Game

Members of the roller skating hockey club are training regularly, although they do their work in a quiet unobtrusive fashion. On inquiry yesterday it was learned that they hold drills on stated dates and that they are confident of being able to place a team in the proposed international league which will stand a splendid chance of winning the honors. In order that they may be tested before the championship series is brought on it has been suggested that one or two exhibition contests be arranged. It is not improbable that the idea will be acted on and Vancouver asked to bring their stalwarts here for a game, in which event the locals would agree to go to the mainland.

PORTLAND WILL HAVE TWO LEAGUE TEAMS

Rose City May Enter Race For Both
Coast Baseball Pennants

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—The plans for a baseball club to represent Portland in the Pacific Northwest league are already taking shape. Walter McCreedy, captain and manager of the Portland team in the Pacific Coast league, stated yesterday that Pearl Casey would undoubtedly be appointed manager of the new team. Casey is second baseman of the Coast league Portland team, and has been field captain for some time. He has shown marked ability in directing affairs, and that is why the McCreedies—the judge and Walter—have selected him to launch the new club.

The agreement by the Coast league magnates that the McCreedies should be allowed to have the two clubs in the Oregon metropolis—one in the Coast league and one in the Northwest league—was said to have been made at a secret conference in Portland several months ago. The agreement, of course, is not binding unless ratified at the coming annual meeting of the Coast league. Probably never before has one town been represented in two leagues of organized ball, but there would appear to be no reason why the experiment should not be a success. While one team is at home and the other is away, the majority of the thing is attractive.

The agreement was probably made in order to gain Judge McCreedy's consent to the addition of a town in the Northwest to the Coast league for next season.

TWO CHALLENGES FOR THE MINTO TROPHY

New Westminster Lacrosse
Club Must Be Ready to Defend Title

Ottawa, Oct. 30.—The challenge of the Tecumseh lacrosse champions of the N. L. C. has been accepted by the Minto cup trustees and also the challenge of the Capitals of Ottawa. The trustees of the Western Canada lacrosse association. The Tecumseh's challenge was in first and therefore they will have the first crack at the New Westminster team, but the latter team must also be accommodated just as soon as possible after the games with the Indians. The trustees have ordered the New Westminster team to be ready to defend the cup early next season.

The Tecumseh challenge follows: "Toronto, Oct. 12, 1933. "Mr. P. D. Ross, Trustee Minto Cup, Ottawa."

"Dear Sir—On behalf of the Tecumseh Lacrosse club, Toronto, winners of the N. L. C. championship for 1933, I wish to challenge for the Minto cup, now held by the Westminster Lacrosse club, of New Westminster, B.C."

"We would like to play a series of games, best two out of three, in the month of May, 1934. It would be impossible for us to play champions of the C. season, which commences in June and continues until September."

"We would respectfully suggest that you communicate with the Westminster Lacrosse club and ascertain if satisfactory dates could be arranged in May, 1934. Yours sincerely,

"C. L. QUERRIE,
"Secretary Tecumseh Lacrosse Club," 12 Earl street."

The challenge of the Regina team, which is also addressed to Mr. Ross, is as follows:

"Regina, Oct. 15, 1933. "Dear Sir—As champions of the Western Canada Lacrosse association for the seasons of 1932 and 1933, the Capital Lacrosse club of Regina hereby challenge for the Minto cup."

"Our club are at the present holders of the Brewery cup as champions of the W. C. L. A. and also Chipman cup, emblematic of the championship of the Middle Western states and Western Canada, and we trust that our challenge will be given due consideration by the trustees. Respectfully yours,

"J. F. PENNY,
"Secretary-Treasurer, Capital Lacrosse Club."

What the World is Doing in the Ath-

"Jacky McFarland will not get a fight with me until I have finished writing my autobiography," declares Bathing Nelson. "I thought that I might take on Percy for a round or two in the east this winter, but I have considered the matter and decided that I shall return home as soon as I have finished my theatrical engagements and resume work on the story of my life. I have had many demands for the book, and believe that I can make more money out of it than I can by fighting. Nelson declared that his autobiography would require another year's work, which means that McFarland and the other would be champions will have to keep on battling the second round of the game completes what he styles his greatest literary work."

An Australian fight critic says of the Burns-Johnson fight: "My opinion of Burns is that he is only a second rate, and if Johnson beats him in the magic circle it is 50 to 1 that Jack knocks him out inside of ten rounds. I can assure you that Squires landed on Burns every round in their last fight, and at the end of the fight in the thirteenth round Squires was leading by twenty-eight points. The American style of fighting in clinches that beat Squires at outfighting Burns is a mug. There were 18,000 persons present, and the money taken at the gate was over $14,000. Burns was paid his money, 12,000, and Squires got $2,000. If Johnson and Burns meet here—and they are sure to meet—there will be 30,000 present. Johnson is a big favorite here."

The Wolgast and Abe Attell match was clinched Saturday by Baron Long, matchmaker of the Jeffries club at Vernon, Cal. The distance is twenty rounds, and the fight will be held at the latter place on Saturday night. The odds are 10 to 1 in favor of refusing to meet any hard hitting contender.

It Pays Best.

Besides their enormous business through 200 semi-ready stores, the company conduct what is known as a "Special Order Business." Each store carries a line of 250 cloth samples—worsteds, tweeds, serges and chevyls—and orders are put through the factory in four days for all suits made to measure.

With this supplement to their business all the custom tailor travelers are being driven out of Western Canada by the Semi-ready agents. This was formerly a rich ground for them for the traveller could always get $10 or $15 a suit extra. When a man knows he can have a suit made to order from his local dealer, he will pay for the same price as he would pay in the East, and delivered promptly on the day promised he is not likely to patronize the itinerant peddler.

Americans, and Paddy Royal, of Montreal, did not equal the Indian's three. Bellers was thought to have lowered Longboat's best time by 84 seconds, and the next two runners, Daly and Royal, have finished within it. The mistake occurred when 26.15 was taken as Longboat's best time, while as a matter of fact the great Indian at the Canadian Amateur Athletic union meet at Halifax on August 29, ran the distance in just 26 minutes and 5.2 seconds. Bellers, with 26.31 1-5, still remains the champion, but Daly, who made 26.10 1-5, and Royal, who made 26.13 2-5, finished below Longboat's time.

The pending encounter will probably be fought at night as Long says the ending of Joffrey's arena has been completed.

He is hardly in the class of Longboat, Meadows or any of that bunch just yet, said Burn, but he is coming. I was out with him several times this summer and he can do a nice five miles."

IROQUOIS IS BROUGHT HERE

Quick Work of B. C. Salvage Company in Raising Submerged Vessel

WAS NEAT AND QUICK JOB

Eighteen Hours After Tug William Jolliffe Reached Scene, Vessel Floated

With the steamer Iroquois in tow, the B. C. Salvage company's tug William Jolliffe, Capt. Stratford, reached port yesterday after a neat and quick salvage job. The Iroquois, which is owned by Capt. A. A. Sears and A. D. Munro, went ashore at Sharp's point, two miles from Nanaimo, on Monday night during thick fog while her regular master was in Victoria. For the election Capt. Sears made arrangements with the B. C. Salvage company to proceed to the assistance of the wrecked vessel, which had then been almost submerged, the water flooding in over the stern when the bow was tilted up at low water. The usual "no cure, no pay" salvage agreement arranged by Lloyd's was made, and the tug William Jolliffe with the steamer Maude in tow started from Esquimalt on Tuesday during very heavy fog. The two vessels anchored off Gordon Head for the night and proceeded on Wednesday morning. Passing Canoe Island Point Pass, the Vancouver tug Burford was seen ashore, and in answer to her distress signals the William Jolliffe went to her assistance. The tug was floated and proceeded, seemingly uninjured.

The salvage steamer arrived at the submerged Iroquois at 11 a.m. Wednesday, and anchored nearby, while a boat went in with Mr. Ronnie, W. P. Bullen, Capt. A. A. Sears and Diver McHardy. The Iroquois presented little of her hull above water, indeed only a small portion of the forward part of her shelter deck and forward part of under the hurricane deck, and the carcass was found by the diver, while the carcass of the other was taken from the hold after the steamer was raised. When the hogs were escaping from the wreck, one of them got foul of the safety valve and the steam escaping in a cloud before the water drowned out the fires.

After floating the Iroquois the William Jolliffe towed her to Nanaimo to discharge her cargo left on board and a start was made for Victoria at 8.40 a.m. yesterday, the run to this port, occupying six hours. The Iroquois was brought into the inner harbor and moored at Turner Beeton's wharf, and she will be hauled out on Turpel's ways in the upper harbor to day.

The Iroquois is a steamer of 264 tons, built by T. W. Patterson for the Victoria & Sidney railway service. She was acquired by the present owners, Capt. A. A. Sears and A. D. Munro, from the company and has been operated from Sidney in connection with the railway line, running between Sidney and Nanaimo, via the island ports.

The tug Darling, of Vancouver, arrived yesterday to tow a scowload of lime from the Raymond kilns at Esquimalt to Vancouver.

The Norwegian steamer Thyra loaded with lumber from Eureka, Cal., passed out yesterday to Fremantle, after loading bunker coal.

The steamer Tees, Capt. Townsend, of the C.P.R., is expected in port early this morning from Cape Scott and west ports of the coast.

Steamers Amur and Princess Beatrice, of the C.P.R., are due, the former from Prince Rupert and Queen Charlotte Islands, and the latter from Skagway via ports.

PRINCESS ENA BROUGHT ORE CARGO

Landed 1,000 Tons at Tye Smelter From Copper Mines at Ikeda Bay

The steamer Princess Ena, Capt. Whiteley, reached port yesterday from Ladysmith where she landed 1,000 tons of ore from the Japanese mines of the Ayawa-Ikeda company on Ikeda bay, Queen Charlotte Islands. The Princess Ena took all the ore there was in the bunkers. The Japanese company expects to have at least 1,000 tons of ore a month for shipment to the Tye smelter at Ladysmith. Bad weather was encountered in the north, and the steamer had to anchor for 24 hours, once at Ikeda Bay and again at Carter Bay to shelter from the strong southeast gales. The steamer Amur also encountered rough weather and was obliged to anchor near the mouth of the Skeena on Monday. Heavy fog was also encountered, and the Princess Ena made the land at Ikeda bay in thick weather. The place is not marked on the chart, and it required some careful navigation to reach the wharves of the Ayawa-Ikeda company. When the steamer reached there another gale blew, faking all night, while the vessel strained at her lines.

The Ayawa-Ikeda company, which is working the big copper property on the Queen Charlotte Islands is a Kobe concern and employs 105 men.

TOP LINERS OF THE SEALING FLEET

Markland and Thomas F. Bayard Reached Port Yesterday From Bering Sea

Two more sealing schooners arrived yesterday from Bering sea, the Markland, Capt. George Heater, with 201 sealskins, and the Thomas F. Bayard, Capt. Blakstad, with 811 sealskins and 28 sea otters. These are the top liners of the fleet, which was smaller than usual this year, numbering only eight vessels. The catches are higher than have been made for six or seven years, the take of sea otter brought by the Thomas F. Bayard being the largest ever brought to port. Two other schooners are still out, the Dora Stewart, Capt. W. Heater, which has about 400 skins and the Chubina, Capt. Delouchev, which has 161.

The schooners had a rough trip from Oumak and the Markland was battered by strong southwest gales since she left Clayquot on Tuesday. The Thomas F. Bayard, which went direct to the outer grounds after her season on the coast, lost two of her crew who were swept overboard and a coward during a heavy gale encountered early in the year when on her way north. Mate Blakstad was at the wheel and he left it to go forward and help two men take in the foresail. Water Blake, a native of Jersey, Eng., who was making his first sealing cruise, and John McLean, a half-breed, were both swept overboard and drowned and James Blakstad, mate, saved himself by clutching the stays.

The Markland took the bulk of her catch in August when good lowering weather was had. In September there were some heavy gales, but seals were plentiful. In three lowerings at the end of September Capt. Heater took 123 sealskins. He took 57 in one day and 44 the next day.

The value of the catch of the Thomas F. Bayard depends much on the state of the otter skins. These range in value, and if the skins are of good quality they will probably bring from $700 to $1,000. It is said that the skins taken are above the average. More sea otter were seen this season than ever before, and had the hunters not been new to the business a much bigger catch would have been made. Capt. Applegate, who is engaged in hunting for Oumak, made a very good catch of sea otter this season.

Unlucky Thirteen.

When the Iroquois stranded, and the water flooded into her over the stern, there were several head of cattle on board, and the more superstitious of the fact is pointed out that there were thirteen passengers and thirteen hogs on board. Two of the cattle were drowned. One of them was jammed her charthouse, the after part being entirely under water, the jackstaff and davits even being submerged. She was lying over on her starboard side, listed at an angle of 45 degrees.

Method of Salvaging.

The method adopted by the salvors who had not the equipment of their specially equipped salvage steamer Burford to draw upon, was to make the housework as watertight as possible, pump out the water, and let the emptied house lift the steamer. Diver McHardy got into his armor and was lowered down, with canvas patches and his gear, and hole after hole was closed. The big gangway ports, windows, portholes, scupperns, chocks, and every aperture had to be blocked. A work of under water carpentry that was not without its difficulties. The gangway port is no less than eight feet wide and ten feet high, while the windows to be blocked are each almost as large as those of an ordinary store dwelling. Across each patch of wood and canvas were nailed fast, and the companion ways leading from the passenger deck, only a small portion of which was dry at the bow, were also blocked. To allow of his wreckers working it was necessary to fasten cleats on the deck, so much was the steamer listed.

When all was tight the steamer Maude was brought close in and moored alongside to allow of the big pumps being connected with the submerged vessel. The work of patching the vessel to make the underwater part tight occupied seventeen hours. The work of raising the steamer took little more than an hour. Before the patches were in place water was pumped at the rate of 1,400 tons an hour by the big twelve inch pumps. When all was tight the water came out so quick that the hull practically jumped as it became empty raising itself rapidly with its own buoyancy. Foot by foot the hull rose, righting itself as it came up, until within an hour and a quarter from the time the pumps started the Iroquois was floated and on an even keel. She was not making water, for the hull has been little injured, the only apparent injuries being some splintering at the forefoot and the damage done to the hull and furnishings by the water.

TIMBER DEAL

Hartly Bay Lumber, Trading and Fishing Company Goes Under New Control

Vancouver, Oct. 29.—Negotiations are in progress whereby a controlling interest in the Hartly Bay Lumber, Trading & Fishing Company, limited, of this city will pass into the hands of Michigan capitalists. The deal involves a sum of over $100,000. The terms of transfer have already been agreed upon.

The Hartly Bay company owns two bays of commercial importance upon the northern coast, these being situated at the junction of three important inland channels, viz, the Douglas and Grenville channels and the Gardner canal, about seventy miles south of Prince Rupert. The improvements recently made by the company consist of an up-to-date sawmill, 700-foot wharf, hotel, fish house, several dwellings, blacksmith's shop, etc. The limits belonging to this company are said to contain as fine a body of timber as any upon the coast, they include a large proportion of yellow cedar—a very scarce variety—which commands double the price of the best red cedar upon the market.

Quite a large amount of additional capital will be introduced into the company, with the intention of the management to put in a cold-storage plant and conduct the fishing business upon a large scale, and thus develop to the fullest extent the extremely valuable fishing privileges it enjoys under special license from the Dominion government.

Captain E. McCoskrie, president of the company, will retain his interests under the proposed readjustment. Mr. J. J. Martin, the present secretary and treasurer, will retire. The company is at present capitalized at $200,000; this will probably be increased to half a million under the new order.

Japan's petroleum output is increasing and will soon be sufficient for the national needs.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Time, the Place and the Girl"

"The Time, the Place and the Girl" returns to the Victoria theatre for one night only, Monday, November 2nd, and will no doubt receive a most hearty welcome, for the same capable cast has been re-engaged for this season with the exception of one or two minor roles. John E. Young still heads the company, which includes several popular favorites with local theatre-goers.

Lillian Goldsmith, Elizabeth Goodall, Mable Melvine, Theodore Rock, E. Coit Albertson, Jason S. Kinslow and a dozen others, all combined to make it the most talked about play of the past year, and the slang phrases which John E. Young in his role of Happy Johnny Hicks gives expression to, have been quoted about town for a year.

The marvelous little "Broilers," as the ten little girls are called who do the wonderful dances which bring the audience to its feet with their swiftness and dash, still work with the animation and enthusiasm which have made these "Elgin Butter Girls" a revelation to theatre-goers, heretofore accustomed only to the usual blase, bored-looking Broadway chorus girls. Songs which are nightly encored until the players cannot respond through fatigue, are Miss Melvine's "Dixie, I Love You," "Uncle Sam's Best Girl," and "The Waning Honeymoon," the duet between Miss Goldsmith and Mr. Young, "Don't You Tell," and Mr. Young's "Thursday Is My Jonah Day."

The New Grand

There will be a 10-cent children's matinee at the New Grand this afternoon at which will be seen the loquacious, sharp-tongued and witty characters; the Four American Trampsters, musical act; Grace Passmore, comic singer; Dick and Barney Ferguson, comedians and dancers; Daisy Thorne, operatic soprano; Thos. J. Price in hilarious and comic, and two good moving pictures.

Albany Ritchie

To Albany Ritchie, the violinist, who will be heard here next week, the European press has been profuse in complimentary references. Le Figaro of Paris, has the following of his concert on January 28, 1908: "The violinist, Albany Ritchie, whose debut took place on Friday in the Salle Femina, was a very great success. In spite of being still very young, the artist has knowledge and a sure technique and the precise qualities of charm and style. He was particularly applauded after his very varied execution of a series of pieces by Hindley, d'Ambrosio and Wieniawski, which, with the concertos of Lalo and Mendelssohn and the Chaconne of Bach, comprised his copious programme."

The Pantages

The singing comedy of the Swichards in which they have a grand opera, is an amusing piece of wit and a way from the ordinary vaudeville singing act. Likewise, Ryder's monkey circus contains features peculiar to itself. The roller skating dance of Thomas and Payne is novel, and La Petite Lauree presents a new and original balancing turn different from anything seen here before. The unique offerings with the balance of the show in harmony go to the formation of a very likeable programme.

RUEF SCANDAL

Attorney Martin Stevens Now Said to Have Notes of $10,000 From Ruef in His Custody

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—A fourth name has been added to the trio accused yesterday in the confession of E. A. S. Blake, the grand jury briber who declared that he had been offered $10,000 and a pension of $100 per month for his wife to serve a term in the penitentiary without revealing the identity of his alleged confederates. According to the statements made by Blake to District Attorney Langdon, supplementing the dramatic confession he made in the open court room, Martin Stevens, an attorney, was made custodian of notes for $10,000, alleged to have been executed by Abraham Ruef, now on trial for bribery. Stevens when asked to explain Blake's accusations, refused to make any statement except under oath. Stevens was attorney for Blake when the latter was first accused of having offered $1,000 to John M. Kelley, a venireman, in order that Kelley should attempt to qualify on the Ruef jury and vote for acquittal.

INCURABLE HEART TROUBLE

LOOKED FOR DEATH IN A SHORT TIME.

Entirely Cured by "Fruit-a-tives."

"Gentlemen,—The days of miracles are not all past and I feel that my complete recovery, from what seemed inevitable death, is practically a miracle. I suffered from severe indigestion and dyspepsia for nearly two years. I could not take food without fearful distress and I became almost a skeleton as the result of the suffering. I could not do any work and became so run down and weak that I could hardly walk. I was attended by two experienced doctors. They both pronounced my case heart failure and incurable, and I looked forward for death in a short time. I not only did not die, but after they gave me up I tried many remedies and treatments but got no better.

"At this time my son asked me to try 'Fruit-a-tives,' and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets I was better and gradually this medicine completely cured me. I took a large number of boxes, perhaps a dozen, and now I am entirely cured and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight.

"I am now so well that I have sold my farm and bought 200 acres more land. I make this statement voluntarily for the sake of humanity, and I am convinced that 'Fruit-a-tives' is a wonderful remedy that will cure stomach trouble where doctors and everything else fail."

(Sgd) Henry Speers, J.P.
The doctors were all wrong. Mr. Speers had what we call "irritated heart." Indigestion and dyspepsia completely upset the stomach. Poisonous gases were formed which swelled the walls of the stomach and pressed against the heart.

"Fruit-a-tives" immediately strengthened the stomach, insured sound digestion and regulated the bowels.

There were no poisons—no noxious gases remained in the system, and the heart was no longer irritated. Then the pain and fluttering stopped.

"Fruit-a-tives" is put up in two sizes, 25c and 50c. If your dealer has not both, write Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mme. Emma Chatel, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I want to tell you that without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For months I suffered with painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the feminine organs. Doctors could do nothing for me, and said I must submit to an operation because I had a tumor.

"One of my cousins advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had cured her.

"I did so and now I have no pain and am entirely cured. Your remedy is deserving of great praise."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Girls Hurt in Panic.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 29.—Panic induced by the sight of a bursting fire hose caused scores of girls, employees in the eleven-story Nave building, corner of Fourth and Race streets, to leap from the windows during a fire today, at least twenty of them being hurt, several seriously, while one of the firemen was also badly injured.

FERNIE FAVORABLE TO CONSERVATIVES

Encouraging Meeting Held in Interest of Candidate Goodeve

Fernie, B. C., Oct. 30.—A Conservative meeting was held on Wednesday evening in Bruce's hall, when a large audience was present. A. S. Goodeve addressed the meeting. W. R. Ross, M. P., was chairman in the absence of Dr. Bonnell, chairman of the association. In a few well-chosen remarks he introduced the speakers. A. J. Harvey, K. C., of Cranbrook, spoke of deferred elections and also of the graft of the present government. He hoped the electors of Fernie would stand by Mr. Goodeve.

The meeting being declared open to opposing speakers, J. Harrington, the unsuccessful Socialist candidate in Macleod, rose in favor of W. Davidson. He said there was graft in both parties. They were all alike. Liberals and Conservatives were both capitalists, and made no difference to the workingman. He urged workingmen to stand together and send Mr. Davidson, if only as an experiment.

Lawyer Fisher spoke in favor of Smith Curtis. The Socialist speaker had said that nothing had been done for the workingman. He referred to the Lemieux act, which Mr. Verville had stated was a boon to workingmen and the Labor Gazette which the Liberals established in 1896. It was very sarcastic in sending Mr. Davidson as an experiment. It was no experiment, as such men had been sent to Ottawa before, weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Mr. Goodeve, on rising to speak, was accorded a hearty reception. He was pleased to see such a large crowd on a very wintry night, and was also glad to see the rapid growth of the city.

He stated that was unjust to him and to the voters to defer the election. Smith Curtis, at a public meeting and in a private letter addressed personally to him, had pledged himself to allow the election to come on at the same time as the others, and he had then changed around. Mr. Curtis was afraid he would not get in, and was waiting for the other elections to see if the government were sustained, as he thought the voters would be influenced by that. Mr. Goodeve did not think so. He promised if elected to do all in his power for them. He was in favor of British Columbia for the white man, and also of better terms.

Several questions were asked the candidate and answered satisfactorily. Cheers for R. L. Borden closed one of the most successful political meetings ever held here.

FOR MR. McINNES

Vancouver Liberal Leaders Wait Arrangement to Secure Him Seat in Federal Cabinet

Vancouver, Oct. 30.—Mr. Sloan is here today for the purpose of talking with the Liberal leaders, who are trying to rig an arrangement whereby the member for Comox-Allyn will retire for Mr. McInnes and the latter will become a cabinet minister. The Vancouver Liberals believe Mr. Sloan will agree to this proposition.

Baby's Fatal Fall

Vancouver, Oct. 30.—The baby daughter of John Stevenson, of Ladner, fell out of our window at the C.P.R. depot this afternoon and was probably fatally injured.

Bad Weather at Fernie

Fernie, Oct. 30.—After two days of snow and frozen rain, the weather has turned milder today, and rain is falling. The roads are in bad condition, and work has been suspended on all buildings.

Engine Derailed

Fernie, Oct. 30.—Yesterday while the M. P. & M. engine was going from here to Hosmer over the G. N. tracks, she was derailed at the interlocking switch of the G. N. and the short line of the Fernie Lumber Co., which crosses the G. N. and is used for getting out logs. The derailling switch was against her and the engineer did not notice it until she ran off and rolled down the embankment. It will take some days to rerail the engine and have her ready for commission.

Lid on at Grand Forks

Grand Forks, Oct. 30.—The police commissioners of this city are evidently going to close the town up tight, as at the last meeting of the board the following resolution was passed and all liquor license holders were served with a copy of same. "The board of police commissioners express their disapproval of the presence in this city of professional gamblers and all holders of retail liquor licenses in this city will be responsible for the presence of professional gamblers on their premises; and further, that the commissioners will suspend the license of any hotelkeeper who is found guilty of permitting gambling on his premises."

Burglars Get Clothing

Vancouver, Oct. 30.—Burglars who evidently wanted to make sure of having plenty of clothing for the winter broke into William Page's clothing store on Tuesday night and decamped with two complete outfits. Judging by the sizes they took the thieves were small men. They made a careful selection of the best goods in the place, taking two fine overcoats, two suits, suspenders, gloves, the latest fashion in shirts, the finest underwear, and a collection of collars and fancy socks and neckties. The goods were valued at $150. The men knew exactly what they wanted for nothing else in the store was touched, and the loss was not discovered until the store was opened on Wednesday morning. The police are working on the case, but up to the present no traces of the men have been found.

Rain Causes Damage

Vancouver, Oct. 30.—The heavy rain of the past two days has done considerable amount of damage to cellars and basements in the business part of the city. Complaints came into the city hall early yesterday morning from people with basements in the vicinity of Powell and Alexander streets near the intersection of Columbia avenue and the Grand Trunk Pacific and Europe hotels and of Knowler & Macaulay's warehouse the water flooded to a depth of a foot and a half or more. An old fire engine was called into requisition, and the water pumped out as rapidly as possible, and an effort made to clear the drain. The same trouble was experienced by residents at the intersection of Hawks avenue and Hastings street, and a great deal of city property was sent to clear out the drain. Sections of the new wood block paving being laid by Ironsides, Rennie & Campbell on Pender street between Burrard and Thurlow streets, were lifted and floated by the flood of water pouring down.

LONG ARCTIC VOYAGE OF TRADING SCHOONER

Sighted Wreck of Schooner Seven Sisters—One Village Almost Deprived of Winter Stores

After an arduous voyage lasting four months in the Arctic ocean the schooner North Bend has returned to Seattle. Capt. Iyer reported that 30 miles north of Sismariet on September 3 the North Bend sighted the schooner Seven Sisters. A vessel was wrecked the night before. Capt. Dyer sailed to within half a mile of the wreck, but the crew had abandoned her, finally reaching Port Clarence, after a terrific walk of thirty days. Learning that the vessel was waterlogged and only two natives aboard, Capt. Dyer proceeded. The Seven Sisters broke up that night.

One village, a mission on St. Lawrence, was almost deprived of its seasonal stores, owing to the early forming of the ice. The North Bend arrived there Sept. 24, and encountered floating ice. Never before had the ice formed so early. The vessel stood in for the village, and when within a few miles of her destination a sound pack was encountered. A road along the village could be seen, and when it became apparent that he could not get on, Capt. Dyer set his course around the north end of St. Lawrence. For thirty-two miles he sailed through the ice. After rounding Northeast cape, the North Bend had a fair wind from the northeast and with this she squared away around the south end of St. Lawrence. On September 26 she again approached the village from the south, where the ice did not obstruct the harbor. The villagers were overjoyed, for they had given up hope of getting their winter's supply. Wharfbuoys came alongside and men, women and children gladly gave assistance in discharging. Anchorage was hazardous and the sails were kept set for safety. In four hours nearly all the merchandise was out of the hold. The vessel lay overnight with just sixty sacks of coal yet to go ashore. It breezed up overnight and the next morning the schooner was twenty miles away. It was a heart-breaking task to beat back but Capt. Dyer was determined to land all his cargo. Finally on the 29th he got into the harbor and the coal was landed in a hurry.

QUESSANT ARRIVES FROM FRENCH PORT

Big Liner of Chargeurs Reunis Reached William Head Last Night From Havre

The Quessant of the Chargeurs Reunis, the French round-the-world line, whose steamers are operating in connection with the C.P.R., reached William Head last night from Havre by way of the Suez canal and many ports of the far east. The Quessant is expected to proceed direct to Vancouver from the quarantine station after being given pratique this morning. She is one of the new vessels of the line, a fine passenger and freight steamer of the most modern type, of 16,000 tons register. It had been intended to dock these steamers at Victoria, but the Esquimalt dry dock is not large enough to accommodate them.

SUEZ ROUTE WILL GET THE HEMP TRADE

Higher Through Rates on Trans-Pacific Steamers Will Divert Trade to Other Route

Well informed shipping men are emphatic in their declaration that the last hemp has been shipped from Manila, via the Pacific coast until at least there is a modification in the regulations which become effective Nov. 1, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

The withdrawal of this commodity means a great deal to the Pacific coast. The cause of this change in traffic is directly attributable to the new ruling of the interstate commerce commission requiring the railroads to publish their proportional share in through rates to and from the Orient. Receipts of hemp during October have been heavy because importers desired to get all that they could before the high freights take effect.

For several years hemp has been imported in increasing quantities from the Pacific coast and every liner from the Philippines brought it part cargo. Originally all the Philippine hemp was shipped by water to New York and the Pacific steamship companies had a long, hard struggle in diverting part of this commerce to this coast.

It required much effort to induce the railroads to establish a through rate on hemp. Finally the rate was fixed at 75 cents a 100 pounds from Manila to Chicago and common points. To cities east of Chicago the local rate was added. Under this arrangement large consignments of hemp have been brought into this country for several years, much of it via Puget Sound. It was distributed to many interior states, most of it going to state penitentiaries where binding twine and bags are made by convicts. Bismark, N.D., Stillwater, Minn., Chicago, Xenia and Columbus, O. were the principal points to which hemp was hauled.

When the interstate commerce commission announced its new ruling, the railroads raised their share of the through rates so that after November 1 the best rates that can be quoted will be 90 cents to Chicago and $1.20 to Ohio points and east. The British steamer Antiochus, due in a few days, is said to be bringing a shipment of hemp, but after this consignment is landed here, no more will come. In the future it will be shipped by the Suez canal and landed at Atlantic ports. The present rates from Manila are a trifle more than those via the Suez, but the difference in time weighed in favor of the Pacific route. Traffic men say that in competition with Suez canal rates, hemp cannot stand a tariff of 50 cents to Chicago and hereafter it will be imported by New York and other ports on the east coast. The importers and men that they are well satisfied with the service, but they say they cannot afford to pay the new rates and in the future will divert their business via the Suez.

The annual importation of hemp via the Pacific coast added greatly to business here. These consignments were entered in the customs houses and the labor employed in discharging and

The H. Corby Labels, —what they stand for Every bottle of Corby's Canadian Whisky bears FOUR labels.

The government label guarantees the age. It reads "Certified manufactured in the year.....", and bottled in bond under excise supervision" and is signed by the Deputy Minister of Inland Revenue.

The cork cannot be extracted from the bottle without destroying the government label.

Another label sets forth that the whisky is "Matured as whisky should be."

A third indicates the contents of the bottle to be "Special Selected."

The fourth label brings out the fact that

For over 49 years, the Corby Label has stood for good whisky.

In some parts of Canada, people have gotten into the habit of thinking that any whisky with a Scotch name must be good. Why! half the map of Scotland has been ransacked for fancy names, which in many cases are used to label the rawest of the new Scotch whiskies which are endeavoring to trade upon old Scotch reputations.

The H. Corby label is never found on a bottle of new whisky, and it is scarcely overstating the case to say that you have not tasted Canadian Rye Whisky at its best until you have tried Corby's "Special Selected."

loading amounted to no small sum. It afforded freight for the railroads and altogether promised to develop to large proportions. Traffic men see their efforts to build up the hemp business for nothing and they blame the new regulations.

MANUKA WAS ON FIRE

Former Canadian-Australian Liner Met With Accident When at Dunedin

The steamer Manuka, formerly of the Canadian-Australian line which was replaced by the Moana in the Canadian-Australian line after arriving at Sydney from Victoria was on fire at Dunedin soon after arrival at the New Zealand port on her first trip in the Australian-New Zealand service, according to a cablegram received by the Mercantile Exchange. The Manuka was not damaged greatly, the fire being extinguished by the crew of the liner.

The steamer Lonsdale of the Canadian-Mexican steamship line is scheduled to sail tonight from the outer wharf for Salina Cruz and way ports of the Mexican coast.

The steamer Princess Victoria will change her sailings on Monday, following a change in the service of the line. The C.P.R. liner will leave here at 2 p.m. for Vancouver instead of at 12.45 p.m. as at present on Monday and afterward. The new schedule provides for the steamer leaving Seattle at 8.30 a.m., arriving here at 1 p.m., leaving for Vancouver at 2 p.m., arriving at 7 p.m., and sailing for Seattle from Vancouver at 10 p.m., arriving at 7.30 a.m.

The contract for repairing the steamer Cottage City of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, has been awarded to the Moran company, of Seattle. This firm was the lowest bidder, its figure being $26,230 and the time limit thirty-six working days. Only three tenders were received, the others being Hall Brothers Shipbuilding company, $27,500 forty-five working days; Hoffmann Engine Works, $34,400, fifty-five working days. The bids were submitted to the head office at San Francisco, and the contract was awarded by General Manager G. H. Higbee.

Henry L. Foshee, former engineer of the steamer Chippewa who was found guilty of smuggling opium from Victoria to Seattle has been deprived of his license as an engineer. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and a fine of $50.

The gradual exhaustion of the lumber supply in the territory contiguous to the Great Lakes is seen from the fact that the lake shipments of this article have decreased about 42 per cent since 1901.

The voice of a man has been known to carry three miles through a 20-foot trumpet.
